3.5 If, at any time during which the Executive is receiving salary or post-termination payments from the Company, the Executive receives payments on account of mental or physical disability from any source, then the Company, at its discretion, may reduce the Executive's salary or post-termination payments by the amount of such disability payments.

4. TERM OF EMPLOYMENT

4.1 The parties agree that during the first one hundred and eighty (180) days (first and last day, inclusive) of the Executive's employment with IQVIA (the "Probation Period"), either party may terminate this Agreement without Cause (as defined in clause 4.2, below) at any time upon giving the other party thirty (30) days written notice; except:

For the avoidance of doubt the terms applicable to the Probation Period shall be applicable to the Extended Probation Period on a pari pasu basis.

4.2 In addition to termination without cause pursuant to sections 4.1 above, your employment may also be terminated as follows:

(a) IQVIA shall have the right to terminate your employment immediately by written notice for Cause (as defined below), or without notice in the event of your Disability (as defined below), upon attaining Retirement Age (as defined below), Negative Medical Report (as defined below) or death.

Subject to the provisions of the foregoing paragraph, for the purposes of this Agreement, you shall be deemed to attain retirement when you attain the age of sixty (60) years (the “Retirement Age”).

Without prejudice to the provisions of any agreement and/or arrangement that IQVIA may have with any body-corporate in respect of statutory or other benefits that you may be entitled to, you acknowledge and agree that, the Retirement Age may be varied by IQVIA at its sole discretion (which shall be by way of written notification to you and which may be electronically communicated).

(b) You may terminate your employment upon ninety (90) days written notice in the event IQVIA fails to comply with any material provision of this Agreement; provided, however, IQVIA shall have ninety (90) days from the receipt of such notice to cure any such default. If such default is cured within the initial ninety (90) days period, or if IQVIA takes reasonable steps to cure the default within such period and reasonably expects to cure such default within a reasonable time and in any event within one hundred and twenty (120) days of the original notice of breach, then in either event, you shall have no right to terminate your employment.

4.3 This Agreement shall terminate upon the termination of the employment relationship with the following exceptions: Section 6 (IQVIA Property and Competitive Business Activities), and Section 7 (Release) shall survive the termination of Executive's employment and/or the expiration or termination of this Agreement, regardless of the reasons for such expiration or termination.

5. COMPENSATION AND BENEFITS UPON TERMINATION

5.1 The Company's obligation to compensate the Executive ceases on the effective termination date except as to: (i) amounts due at that time and (ii) any compensation and/or benefits to which the Executive may be entitled to receive pursuant to Sections 5.2, 5.3, 5.4, 5.7 or 5.8.

5.2 If IQVIA terminates Executive's employment pursuant to Sections 4.1 (without cause), then the Company's sole obligation shall be to pay Executive: (i) amounts due on the effective termination date; (ii) Subject to Executive's compliance with Section 6 and subject to Sections 3.5 and 5.6, an amount equal to this Executive then current monthly base salary (less applicable withholdings) for the three (3) month non-competition period set forth in Section 6.2, payable in equal monthly installments.

5.3 If IQVIA terminates this Executive's employment as provided in Section 4.2 or if the Executive terminates employment pursuant to Section 4.1 (without cause), then the Company's sole obligation shall be to pay Executive amounts due on the effective termination date. Executive, except when employment terminates pursuant to Section 4.2 (a) (death), shall comply with Section 6 of this Agreement upon expiration or termination of this Agreement.

5.5 The Company's obligation to provide the payments under Sections 5.2 and 5.4 is conditioned upon Executive's execution of an enforceable release of all claims and the Executive's compliance with Section 6 of this Agreement. If Executive chooses not to execute such a release or fails to comply with Section 6 then the Company's obligation to compensate the Executive's ceases on the effective termination date.

5.6 Executive is not entitled to receive any compensation or benefits upon the Executive's termination except as: (i) set forth in this Agreement; (ii) otherwise required by law. Moreover, the terms and conditions afforded Executive under this Agreement are in lieu of any severance benefits to which the Executive otherwise might be entitled pursuant to any severance plan, policy and practice of IQVIA and or its Affiliates. Nothing in this Agreement, however, is intended to waive or supplant any death, disability, retirement or pension benefits to which the Executive may be entitled under employee benefit plans in which the Executive participates.

5.7 Without prejudice to the provisions of Section 4.1, 4.2 and 5.2, if the Executive terminates his/her employment pursuant to Section 4.1 (without cause), then IQVIA may at its sole option, either require the Executive to: (a) serve the notice period specified in Section 4.1 (whether such notice period is within the Probation Period or at any time thereafter) in whole or part; or (b) may pay the Executive an amount equivalent to the gross salary that would have been owed to the employee for the duration of the aggregate notice period specified in Section 4.1 in lieu of the Executive serving the said notice period.

5.8 It is expressly acknowledged and agreed that the rights of IQVIA set out in Section 5.7 (a) and (b) may be exercised in whole or in part by IQVIA and where IQVIA requires the Executive to only serve a part of his/her notice period pursuant to Section 5.7 (a), then for the remainder of the notice period IQVIA shall pay amounts in lieu of notice on a pro-rated basis.

INDEPENDENCE REQUIREMENTS FOR NEW JOINERS

What is independence and why is it so important?

Do the independence rules apply to me?

When is my family subject to the rules?

What kinds of investments are prohibited for a 'Member of the Firm'?

What kinds of loans are acceptable?

What Is Independence and Why Is It so Important?

Auditor Independence avoids interests and relationships that might impair objectivity. The SEC, PCAOB, IESBA, AICPA, ICAI and other regulators/oversight bodies have developed basic standards for determining independence. These standards apply to our audit clients.

Do the Independence Rules Apply to Me?

Independence rules apply to all employees, directors and partners of the Firm. However not all of the rules apply to everyone; so it is necessary to understand the independence rules that apply to you.

Please note that all client-facing personnel in the Firm, their spouses and dependents are governed by the independence policies of the Firm that include restrictions on investments in, and loans to or from, restricted entities. Investments include shares, debentures, bonds, mutual funds, portfolio management schemes, etc. In addition you may have restrictions on other financial interests with restricted entities on insurance policies, credit cards, loans, brokerage and bank accounts and spouse and dependent benefit plans. New Joiners should be in compliance with the Independence policies within 14 days of joining.

Two important technical terms identify those persons who need to maintain independence with respect to the Firm's clients. They are ' Member of the Firm ' and ' Covered Person ' . As you will see, all Covered Persons are also Members of the Firm, but all Members of the Firm may or may not be Covered Persons.

'Member of the Firm' - You are a Member of the Firm if you are a partner or a director or a client facing professional, including senior manager, manager or employee or any other professional who directly markets services, or who consults with an engagement team on a client-specific matter. This includes people who do not face clients directly but deal with client related data from afar. The only exception to these rules are staff who join Administration, Finance function etc. below the level of Director.

If you are a Member of the Firm you will be restricted from investing in, and receiving loans from or making loans to, restricted entities. Members of the Firm may invest in mutual funds if they are not Covered Persons.

Please note that the term 'Member of the Firm' also includes your immediate family members (spouse and dependents). Details are under - When Is My Family Subject to the Rules?

'Covered Person' - You are a Covered Person with respect to a specific client if you (1) participate in the audit engagement, (2) are in the Firm's Chain of Command with respect to the audit engagement; (3) are a partner, director or professional employee having managerial responsibilities who (a) has provided 10 hours or more of non-audit professional services to the audit client for the period beginning on the date such services are first provided and ending on the date of the auditors' report on the financial statements for the fiscal year during which those services are provided, or (b) expects to provide any non-audit professional services to the audit client on a recurring basis; or (4) are a partner or client facing director in the same ' office ' in which the lead audit engagement partner primarily practices in connection with the audit engagement at an issuer level. The term 'Covered Person' also includes immediate family members, as explained in the section titled 'When Is My Family Subject to the Rules?' The Covered Person concept applies to bank accounts, brokerage accounts, insurance products, credit cards, housing and student loans, employment relationships of your family, investments of your spouse or dependents in their employee benefit plans of restricted entities, and investment in mutual funds.

When Is My Family Subject to the Rules?

If you are a Member of the Firm or a Covered Person, your spouse, spousal equivalent and dependents * , whether or not related, are also considered Members of the Firm or Covered Persons. These individuals are called ' immediate family members ' in the independence rules and they are subject to the same independence rules that apply to you. This means their investments, loans, all bank accounts, current and savings accounts, brokerage accounts, insurance policies, credit card balances, spouse or dependent employee benefit plans may affect your independence.

* Dependents are persons and/or their spouses who received more than 50% of their financial support in the past 12 months from you.

In certain instances your ' close family members ' —immediate family members plus your non-dependent parents, non-dependent children and siblings—are also subject to the independence rules. A close family member's employment with an audit client in an accounting role or a financial reporting oversight role, a material and known investment in, or control of an audit client, may impair the Firm's independence.

What Kinds of Investments Are Prohibited For a 'Member of the Firm'?

As a Member of the Firm, you (and your immediate family members) generally may not own (or be committed to acquire) any direct or material indirect financial interest in a restricted entity. Examples of financial interests include equity and preference shares, debentures, bonds and deposits, shares in a mutual fund, partnership units, stock rights, options or warrants to acquire an interest in an entity, or rights of participation such as puts, calls, or straddles.

In addition:

· If you own or your immediate family member owns shares in a mutual fund that is an audit client or in a non-client mutual fund that is advised, sponsored, or managed by an audit client or a subsidiary of an audit client for which you are a Covered Person, you have a direct financial interest in that client, and that is prohibited.

· You are not permitted to join an investment club, or participate in a Portfolio Management Scheme. Similarly, you may not invest in controlled joint ventures or partnerships unless those entities follow the Firm's independence rules with respect to their investments.

· Beneficial interests in trusts and interests in retirement plans or stock option plans of former employers are subject to the restrictions applicable to financial interests.

What Kinds of Loans Are Acceptable?

If you are a Covered Person, you and your immediate family members may not obtain loans from SEC financial institution audit clients for which you are a Covered Person. However, certain types of loans are permitted and other loans already in existence may be grandfathered. Personal loans from SEC audit clients of the Firm are not permitted for all Covered Persons. These loans cannot be grandfathered.

CODE OF BUSINESS CONDUCT

Introduction

Our reputation for integrity and fair dealing is essential to our continued success

DDB mudra group

While no written policy can replace thoughtful behavior, please read this statement carefully--it is intended to help you focus on areas of ethical risk and provide guidance on key topics.

Applicability

This Code of Business Conduct applies to all directors, officers and employees of Omnicom Group Inc. and its majority-owned subsidiaries (collectively, the "Company").

Compliance with Laws, Rules and Regulations

We comply with all laws of the places where we do business. Omnicom is a global company, subject to many legal systems. Our employees doing business internationally must comply with all applicable laws and regulations and uphold the standards provided in this Code of Business Conduct, regardless of what others may or may not do.

This includes compliance with anticorruption and antibribery laws, including the U.S. Foreign Corrupt Practices Act, the UK Bribery Act of 2010, and any other local anticorruption and antibribery laws wherever we do business. We strictly prohibit directly or indirectly promising, giving or receiving any type of bribe, kickback, payoff or inappropriate advantage (whether in cash or any other form) to any person with the intention of influencing that person to assist us in obtaining or retaining business or any other unfair advantage in the conduct of business for the Company. We are prohibited from using personal funds or doing through a third party intermediary that which we are prohibited from doing directly. If you become aware or any violation of this policy, you are obligated to report it to the Omnicom legal department.

Conflict of Interests; Confidential Information

We need to avoid situations where our personal interests interfere with the Company's interests. We also need to protect confidential information.

No Insider Trading: We do not trade in any securities of any company on the basis of material, non-public information. We do not provide "tips" or confidential information to others who could reasonably be expected to trade in any securities of any company. Confidential information should not be shared with others, even with other employees unless of course they have a reasonable business reason for knowing it. ("Material" information is generally regarded as information that a reasonable investor would think is important in deciding whether to buy, hold or sell a security. In short, it is any information that could reasonably affect the price of the security; "non-public" means information not available to the investing community or the public at large.)

Confidentiality Generally: Our people should maintain the confidentiality of information entrusted to them by the Company or its clients, except when disclosure is authorized or legally mandated. Confidential information includes proprietary information such as plans, forecasts and employee information, as well as any other non-public information that might be of use to competitors or harmful to us or our clients if disclosed. It also includes information that others have entrusted to us on a confidential basis. Our obligations not to disclose confidential information continue even after employment ends.

DDB mudra group

Corporate Opportunities: We owe a duty to advance our employer's legitimate interests. We promptly disclose to our Company and do not personally take investment or other corporate opportunities that become available to us, or family members, as a result of employment, including opportunities arising through Company resources or relationships. The test for this is simple--don't take anything offered to you, including any loan or other financial benefit, on terms that would not be made available to you if you were not an employee of our company. This does not, of course, prohibit reasonable business entertainment and non-cash gifts meant to create goodwill and sound working relationships consistent with applicable law. We expect each employee to exercise good judgment and discretion in giving or accepting any gift. In no event may any gift cause any other provision of this Code of Business Conduct to be violated, or put you or the Company in a position that may cause embarrassment.

Competition and Fair Dealing: Many of us have signed agreements that subject us to non-competition restrictions, or prohibitions against soliciting customers or employees, any or all of which may apply even after termination of employment. As a matter of policy, we must vigorously enforce these kinds of limitations, whether they arise under employment agreements, stock award agreements, acquisition agreements or otherwise. We also must outperform our competitors through our innovation, execution and hard work, not unethical or illegal business practices. Examples include theft of competitively sensitive information, giving or receiving inappropriate gifts or other improper inducements that are not consistent with customary business practice. We do not take unfair advantage of anyone through manipulation, concealment, misrepresentation of material facts or any other unfair practice.

Discrimination and Harassment

We are an equal opportunity employer and, except in the rare case in which a bona fide occupational qualification applies, do not discriminate against employees or job applicants on the basis of race, religion, sex, national origin, age, disability, sexual orientation, gender identity and/or expression, pregnancy or any similar status or condition.

Furthermore, sexual harassment of any kind or harassment based on any other legally protected characteristic is expressly prohibited. We define sexual harassment as unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors and/or other verbal, visual or physical conduct of a sexual nature.

Submission to such conduct is explicitly or implicitly made a condition of an individual’s employment or advancement;

The response to such conduct is used as a basis for employment decisions; or

The conduct has the purpose or effect of unreasonably interfering with an individual’s work performance or creating an intimidating, hostile or offensive working environment.

Health and Safety

We strive to provide a safe and healthy work environment by following safety and health rules and practices and promptly reporting accidents, injuries and unsafe equipment, practices or conditions to a supervisor or senior manager. We report to work in condition to perform our duties at our best.

DDB

Accounting and Record-Keeping

We require honest and accurate recording and reporting of information in order to make responsible business decisions and accurately calculate our financial results. We document and record our business expenses accurately. Unrecorded or "off the books" funds or other assets, charges or obligations are strictly prohibited, as are special billing or payment procedures that suggest evasion of tax or other requirements by the other party to them.

Protection and Proper Use of Assets

Theft, carelessness or waste of Company assets have a direct impact on our profitability. All Company assets should only be used for legitimate business purposes.

Political Activities

Our employees are encouraged to exercise their right to participate in political activities. This decision to become involved in political activities is entirely personal and voluntary. Therefore, Company funds generally should not be used for contributions to any political party or candidate. However, we recognize our right and responsibility to lobby on behalf of issues that affect our company and business operations, but only in full compliance with the laws and regulations governing these activities.

Implementation and Enforcement

Acts that violate these policies will be considered outside the scope of employment and may result in disciplinary action and legal sanctions being taken against you, including where appropriate the immediate termination of employment.

If you have any doubts about whether you or anyone else is adhering to these principles, you should feel free to discuss the matter with your supervisor, the financial manager for your unit or Omnicom's compliance office. If you feel uncomfortable in doing that or just want to remain anonymous, you can use the mechanism we have developed for confidentially reporting possible violations of this policy or other improper behavior. Details for contacting Omnicom's compliance office or otherwise reporting possible ethical breaches have been posted on the websites of Omnicom and each of its networks.

All reports of possible violations about which management becomes aware will be promptly considered. We will not punish any employee or representative for making any report in good faith.

Waivers

Under applicable requirements, only our Board of Directors or the Governance Committee of our Board is permitted to waive a provision of these policies for our executive officers or directors, and we cannot foresee circumstances in which any waiver would be granted. Waivers for any other employee may be made only by an appropriate Company officer or business unit head, and then only under special circumstances.

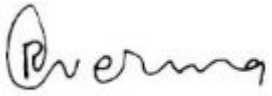
Conclusion



No set of specific rules can anticipate or capture every possible instance in which an ethical issue may arise. Instead, all of us must be guided by the overarching principle that we are committed to fair and honest conduct and use our judgment and common sense whenever confronted with an ethical issue.

Our reputation depends, to a very large measure, on you taking personal responsibility for maintaining and adhering to the policies and guidelines set forth here. Your continued cooperation in this regard is appreciated.

Corporate Opportunities: We owe a duty to advance our employer's legitimate interests. We promptly disclose to our Company and do not personally take investment or other corporate opportunities that become available to us, or family members, as a result of employment, including opportunities arising through Company resources or relationships. The test for this is simple--don't take anything offered to you, including any loan or other financial benefit, on terms that would not be made available to you if you were not an employee of our company. This does not, of course, prohibit reasonable business entertainment and non-cash gifts meant to create goodwill and sound working relationships consistent with applicable law. We expect each employee to exercise good judgment and discretion in giving or accepting any gift. In no event may any gift cause any other provision of this Code of Business Conduct to be violated, or put you or the Company in a position that may cause embarrassment.

Competition and Fair Dealing: Many of us have signed agreements that subject us to non-competition restrictions, or prohibitions against soliciting customers or employees, anyor all of which may apply even after termination of employment. As a matter of policy, we must vigorously enforce these kinds of limitations, whether they arise under employment agreements, stock award agreements, acquisition agreements or otherwise. We also must outperform our competitors through our innovation, execution and hard work, not unethical or illegal business practices. Examples include theft of competitively sensitive information, giving or receiving inappropriate gifts or other improper inducements that are not consistent with customary business practice. We do not take unfair advantage of anyone through manipulation, concealment, misrepresentation of material facts or any other unfair practice.

Discrimination and Harassment

We are an equal opportunity employer and, except in the rare case in which a bona fide occupational qualification applies, do not discriminate against employees or job applicants on the basis of race, religion, sex, national origin, age, disability, sexual orientation, gender identity and/or expression, pregnancy or any similar status or condition.

Furthermore, sexual harassment of any kind or harassment based on any other legally protected characteristic is expressly prohibited. We define sexual harassment as unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors and/or other verbal, visual or physical conduct of a sexual nature.

Submission to such conduct is explicitly or implicitly made a condition of an individual’s employment or advancement;

The response to such conduct is used as a basis for employment decisions; or

The conduct has the purpose or effect of unreasonably interfering with an individual’s work performance or creating an intimidating, hostile or offensive working environment.

Health and Safety

We strive to provide a safe and healthy work environment by following safety and health rules and practices and promptly reporting accidents, injuries and unsafeequipment, practices or conditions to a supervisor or senior manager. We report to work in condition to perform our duties at our best.

Accounting and Record-Keeping

We require honest and accurate recording and reporting of information in order to make responsible business decisions and accurately calculate our financial results. We document and record our business expenses accurately. Unrecorded or "off the books" funds or other assets, charges or obligations are strictly prohibited, as are special billing or payment procedures that suggest evasion of tax or other requirements by the other party to them.

Protection and Proper Use of Assets

Theft, carelessness or waste of Company assets have a direct impact on our profitability. All Company assets should only be used for legitimate business purposes.

Political Activities

Our employees are encouraged to exercise their right to participate in political activities. This decision to become involved in political activities is entirely personal and voluntary. Therefore, Company funds generally should not be used for contributions to any political party or candidate. However, we recognize our right and responsibility to lobby on behalf of issues that affect our company and business operations, but only in full compliance with the laws and regulations governing these activities.

Implementation and Enforcement

Acts that violate these policies will be considered outside the scope of employment and may result in disciplinary action and legal sanctions being taken against you, including where appropriate the immediate termination of employment.

If you have any doubts about whether you or anyone else is adhering to these principles, you should feel free to discuss the matter with your supervisor, the financial manager for your unit or Omnicom's compliance office. If you feel uncomfortable in doing that or just want to remain anonymous, you can use the mechanism we have developed for confidentially reporting possible violations of this policy or other improper behavior. Details for contacting Omnicom's compliance office or otherwise reporting possible ethical breaches have been posted on the websites of Omnicom and each of its networks.

All reports of possible violations about which management becomes aware will be promptly considered. We will not punish any employee or representative for making any report in good faith.

Waivers

Under applicable requirements, only our Board of Directors or the Governance Committee of our Board is permitted to waive a provision of these policies for our executive officers or directors, and we cannot foresee circumstances in which any waiver would be granted. Waivers for any other employee may be made only by an appropriate Company officer or business unit head, and then only under special circumstances.

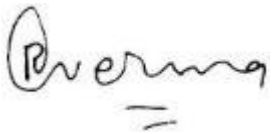
Conclusion



No set of specific rules can anticipate or capture every possible instance in which an ethical issue may arise. Instead, all of us must be guided by the overarching principle that we are committed to fair and honest conduct and use our judgment and common sense whenever confronted with an ethical issue.

Our reputation depends, to a very large measure, on you taking personal responsibility for maintaining and adhering to the policies and guidelines set forth here. Your continued cooperation in this regard is appreciated.

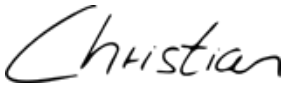
Dear Colleagues,

In the past few years, the world has faced exceptional challenges, uncertainties, and complexity. The way we live, the way we do business, and the way we work has been profoundly affected. Technology has become crucial to handling these challenges and changes.

This fast rate of change has increased the focus on building and maintaining trust as the foundation for growth and innovation. As such, the interplay between technology and trust will be one of the key drivers of economic growth in the future.

TRUST MATTERS.



Being a trusted partner for our customers, partners, suppliers, and colleagues has always been at the heart of our business, but in today's uncertain environment, it is more important than ever.

At SAP, we always undertake our business efforts with integrity. Our Global Code of Ethics and Business Conduct for Employees is our guide, and helps us protect our colleagues, business, reputation, and ecosystem. It demonstrates that SAP is committed to the highest standards of ethical business and that we expect the same high standards from our partners and suppliers.

It is upon each and every one of us to uphold these standards, adhere to this Code, and speak out if or when we feel something is not right. Our global team of ethics and compliance experts is here for you, to provide the support and guidance needed to make strong, ethical, and compliant choices.

LET'S WIN THE RIGHT WAY.

Best regards,

We are respectful and inclusive of our people and our stakeholders, always aiming to make a positive impact on those societies in which we work. We strive for sustainable growth while protecting our environment.

To that end, we do not compromise our values and our commitment to ethical business. 2.1 Our “How We Run” Behaviors

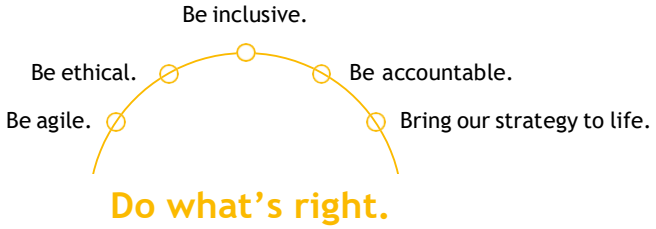
Our company culture inspires ethical business practices through our established “How We Run” behaviors. These behaviors help define how each of us at SAP can run at our best.



We are all accountable for our actions, behavior, and the way we conduct our business.

As employees, we can demonstrate our commitment to ethics and compliance by embracing our behaviors and ensuring that we:

- Act with integrity and encourage colleagues to do the same.
- Familiarize ourselves with and act in accordance with our policies and guidelines, including this Code.
- Seek help and guidance on matters of compliance – from our manager, HR, Global Legal, or the Office of Ethics & Compliance (OEC).
- Raise concerns over situations relating to potential noncompliance by using our reporting channels. For further information about reporting channels, see the “Speak Out” section of this Code.

If you are a leader, you play a special role in modeling these behaviors to inspire and support employees in creating a foundation of trust.

We need our leaders to do what’s right, making SAP better for generations to come:

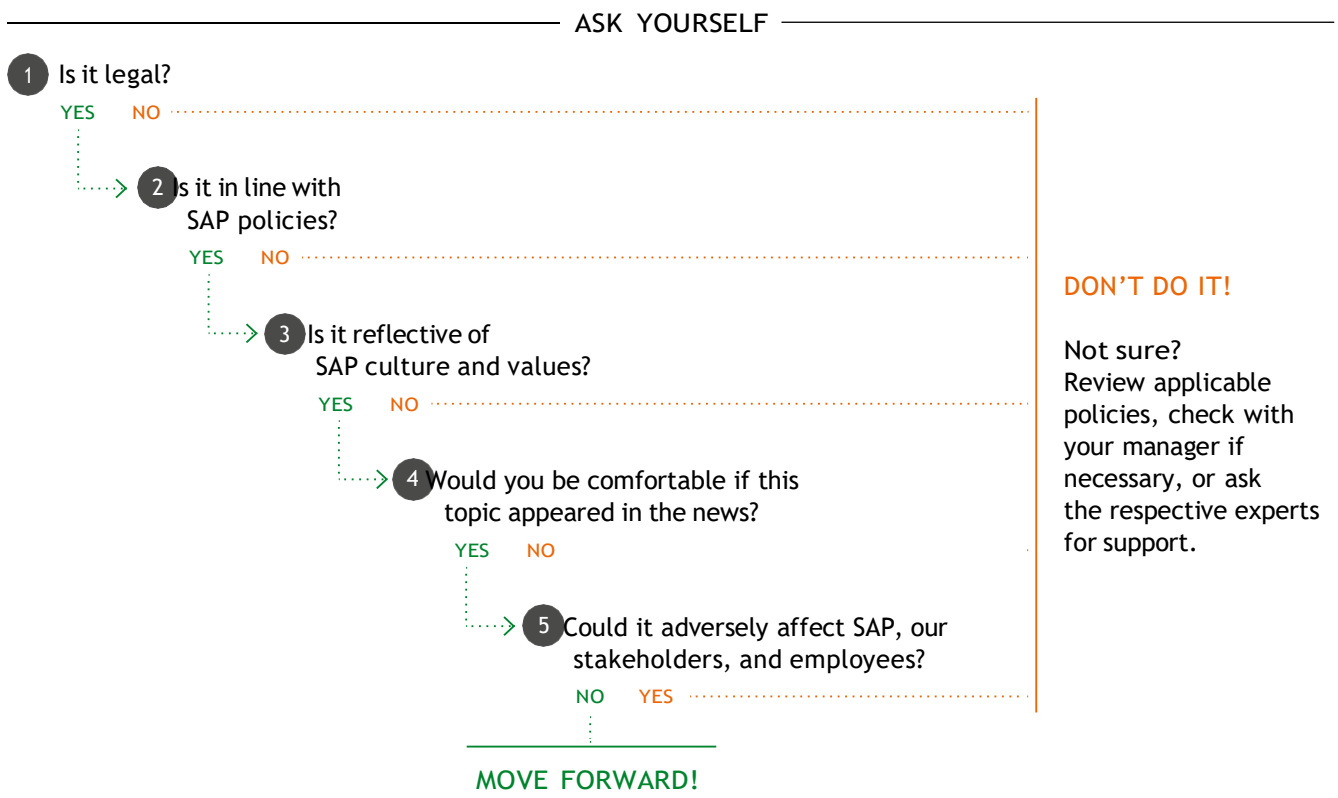
3.1 Ask Yourself

We rely on you and our ecosystem – including customers, partners, and suppliers – to assess every decision and ensure that every action made on behalf of and related to our organization is legal, fair, and compliant with our policies and guidelines, this Code, and any law or regulation.

This Code helps guide your conduct as you do business at SAP. Many of the principles described in this Code are general in nature. The Code cannot cover every situation that may arise. It is a starting point and not the exclusive source of information regarding how we conduct business.



It is our duty to familiarize ourselves with all applicable SAP policies and other governance documents as they provide detailed guidance.

Use common sense and good judgment in applying this Code. If you have any questions about the Code and its application, it is your responsibility to always seek support from one of the resources provided.

If at any time you are unsure of the best course of action, ask yourself these questions to determine the right steps to take:

3.2 Speak Out

Prevention is best; however, if something does go wrong, we count on you to speak out. We rely on you and our ecosystem to report any actual or potential misconduct of which you may become aware.

We can fix a problem only if we are aware of it. The earlier we learn about an issue, the greater the chances to mitigate potential harm to SAP, our employees, and those doing business with us.

If something doesn't feel right, look right, or sound right, it probably is not right. We encourage you to speak out.

We recommend discussing with your management and your Office of Ethics & Compliance (OEC) Field Compliance Officer and report any serious SAP-related compliance concerns using the various reporting channels that SAP provides (see section 3.2.1).

Concerns can also be raised with the Global Ombuds Office (ombudsperson@sap.com).

3.2.1 REPORTING AN ISSUE

Report any serious compliance concerns relating to the Code or any laws and regulations – in good faith, confidentially, and if desired, anonymously – using our Speak Out at SAP tool. Speak Out is available online or via the integrated 24x7 helpline, which has local language support whether you are reporting from inside or outside of SAP.

We ask you to provide as much information as possible when making a report. Mere rumors are not sufficient; however, actual proof of wrongdoing is not necessarily required.

3.2.2 YOUR REPORT MAKES A DIFFERENCE

SAP is committed to thoroughly assessing every report and, where appropriate, conducting careful, objective, and professional investigations of the matter by the respective expert departments (for example, Office of Ethics & Compliance (OEC), Internal Audit, Global HR Compliance). Where appropriate, we will carry out consequence management and apply acquired insights to further strengthen our policies, processes, and controls.

When we carry out an investigation, we require your full cooperation to help resolve a matter.

Investigations may result in consequences related to employment law and external investigations, action in the civil courts, or criminal prosecution.

3.2.3 SAP PROTECTS YOU

We know that it can take courage to report an issue. You may ask yourself the following questions: Is what I am observing really wrongdoing? Will I face consequences if I report? Is it worth it?

SAP does not tolerate any form of retaliation against those who raise concerns in good faith to help protect and prevent damage to SAP. We have various safeguards in place to protect confidentiality of any report made through the reporting channels provided.

For example, we strictly limit access to these reports to a small number of specifically trained and authorized experts. Should any forms of retaliation occur despite our precautions, we ask that you report them. We can draw on additional robust procedures to address your protection.

We equally do not tolerate any personal or false attacks aimed at specific individuals. Dishonest, bad faith, or otherwise abusive reports are prohibited and may result in disciplinary action.

4.1 Diversity and Inclusion, Anti-Discrimination, and Anti-Harassment

4.1.1 DIVERSITY AND INCLUSION

SAP behaviors reflect our values and inspire appreciation for all aspects of diversity and inclusion.

At SAP, every person must be treated with dignity and respect. We proactively promote diversity, inclusion, and social justice and work to ensure that our workforce reflects gender parity and the demographics of the regions where we have employees. We commit ourselves to be respectful, professional, compliant, inclusive, and healthy and to foster employee engagement, spark innovation, and drive customer success.

The Global Diversity & Inclusion Office is at hand for any related questions.

4.1.2 ANTI-DISCRIMINATION AND ANTI-HARASSMENT

We embrace and encourage different perspectives. We are made stronger by our unique combination of diverse characteristics, including but not limited to, culture, race, ethnicity, age, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, physical or mental ability, and different work-life situations. We make every effort to ensure that all stages of the employee lifecycle are inclusive to enable employee success, hold leaders accountable, and build a diverse environment – both internally and among our ecosystem.

Our priority is to provide a work environment where employees, suppliers, customers, and partners can be confident that their integrity, dignity, rights, health, safety, and well-being are valued and respected. Therefore, we commit ourselves to a workplace free from discrimination, harassment, bullying, mobbing, or retaliation.

As exemplars for our “How We Run” behaviors, we all must act as role models.

We encourage you to report to the Global HR Compliance Office any concern or behavior that is inconsistent with our values and the regulations outlined in the SAP Global Anti-Discrimination Policy.

4.2 Healthy Organization

SAP's purpose to make the world run better and improve people's lives includes caring for the health and well-being of everyone at SAP.

Conditions in which people live up to their full potential are mainly defined by an organization's leadership style and working culture. We believe that there is no organizational health without individual health. SAP and our leaders take ownership for workplaces and a caring culture that fosters physical health, safety, and mental well-being, while all employees are empowered to take care of their individual health.

We encourage you to get involved and shape our caring culture and working conditions by using feedback opportunities to "Tell It Like It Is" and help us improve where needed. Our success is tracked in the Business Health Culture Index (BHCI) (annual #Unfiltered employee survey) and the Stress Satisfactions Score (biannual Future of Work Pulse).

The Global Health & Well-Being organization, together with strong partners in Global Real Estate & Facilities, Occupational Safety, Total Rewards, Personal Security, SAP Learning, and HR Global Service Delivery teams, provide the information, education, and support to foster a healthy working culture and a supportive environment for all employees. In doing so, we enable the entire organization to be a role model for safe, healthy, and sustainable people management.

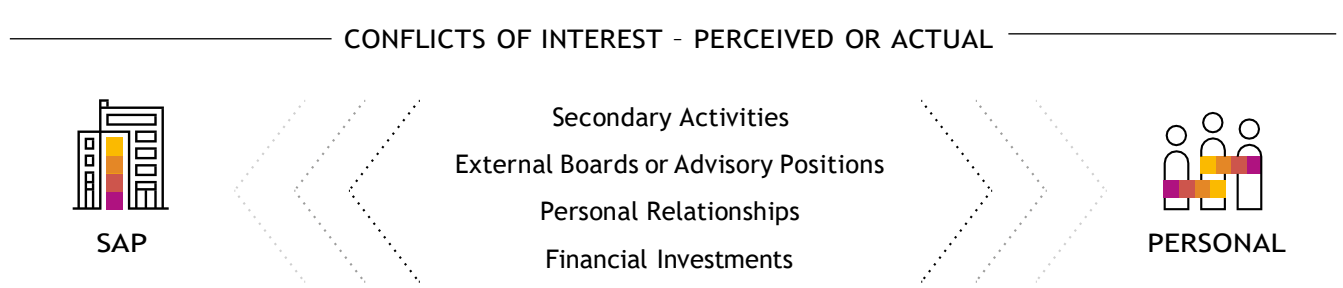
4.3 Conflicts of Interest

4.3.1 PERSONAL CONFLICTS OF INTEREST



We respect your personal interests and your private life. We also expect that you are loyal to our company and act in the interest of SAP. If your private or financial interests or relations collide with those of SAP or may be perceived to collide with SAP's interest, a potential conflict of interest arises.

Potential conflicts of interest can arise from many situations.

Even the appearance of a conflict of interest can be problematic and must be avoided at all times. You are responsible for disclosing any potential conflicts of interest, actual or perceived, as early as possible or as soon as you become aware. Seek advice and, if warranted, approval from the Office of Ethics & Compliance (OEC). If any material changes occur after approval – for example, the duration or tasks of any secondary activities change or the amount of investment increases – you must proactively report these changes for further review and approval.

While there is no exhaustive list of such situations, potential conflicts of interest typically arise from the following scenarios.

DocuSign Envelope ID: 26B5A6CE-9CA5-4E7B-ADCF-E88EB513A166

4.3.2 SECONDARY ACTIVITIES

A secondary activity, whether paid or unpaid, must not negatively impact either your ability to work for SAP, or your performance. Prior to starting a secondary activity outside of SAP, you must ensure that there is no conflict of interest. Refer to SAP One to determine whether a formal secondary activity declaration is required for your country and the process for reporting. If no specific process is required, report your secondary activity to your manager and the Office of Ethics & Compliance (OEC).

Secondary activities for competitors

Any activity for an SAP competitor is prohibited. This includes, but is not limited to, secondary employment and any other activities such as assuming any board seat, advisory, or supervisory role; performing any marketing or sales activities for competitors or their products and services; or working as an independent party in a contract, as a consultant; or in any other capacity for a competitor. You must not function directly or indirectly or carry out any activity that assists in the marketing or sale of products or services of a competitor of SAP. A competitor is not limited to multinational technology companies; any entity, of any size, can be a competitor if it provides similar software or services to anything provided by SAP. The OEC determines who is classified as a competitor, in alignment with other relevant functions.

Secondary activities for you or your family

You should use caution when you or any family members engage in your own business activities if they are closely related to SAP's business. You must always ensure that these activities do not conflict with the rightful interests of SAP and adhere to these requirements:

- While working at SAP, you must not pursue business that conflicts with the interests of SAP.
- You must not directly or indirectly exploit any business opportunity available to SAP for your own benefit or the benefit of others.

If you develop or sell your own or third-party products, or perform services where SAP offers or is planning to offer similar products or services, you must get prior written approval from your manager and the OEC.

Secondary activities for customers, partners, and suppliers

We discourage any secondary activity for an SAP customer, partner, or supplier. If you want to pursue such an activity, you must get prior written approval from your manager and the OEC. The OEC determines whether the activity falls within SAP's best interests.

4.3.3 BOARD OF DIRECTORS, CORPORATE OFFICER, OR ADVISORY POSITIONS WITH OTHER COMPANIES

Positions as board directors, corporate officers, or consultants are considered a secondary activity and require prior written approval from the Office of Ethics & Compliance (OEC). Any activity that involves decision making or advisory services, or that is linked to a role within a supervisory body for an SAP customer, partner, or supplier is discouraged and is reviewed with scrutiny by the OEC. If the OEC grants approval, your additional role must not affect your loyalty to SAP. You must excuse yourself from voting in decisions that directly or indirectly result or could result in an actual or perceived conflict of interest in terms of your loyalty or preferential treatment towards SAP. If the company becomes a competitor and its status or relationship with SAP changes, you must immediately resign from the position.

Positions with a competitor

You are prohibited from joining the board of directors or holding a position as a corporate officer or an advisor within a competitor of SAP because this directly harms SAP's interests. This also applies to any company that promotes or markets products and services for a competitor of SAP. The OEC determines who or what is classified as a competitor in alignment with other relevant functions.

Positions with a customer, partner, or supplier

Regardless of your position at SAP, you must obtain prior written approval from your manager and the OEC before accepting a board of directors, corporate officer, or advisory position with a customer, partner, or supplier of SAP. The OEC determines whether the activity is within SAP's interests.

4.3.4 PERSONAL RELATIONSHIPS

It is generally accepted that your family and close personal contacts (for example, good friends) can work for SAP, our customers, partners, suppliers, and competitors. Be aware, however, that such circumstances can lead to personal conflicts of interest.

Personal relationships that might affect the interests of SAP and its employees

Your family and close personal contacts may be employed by SAP if there is no actual, possible, or perceived conflict of interest. For that reason, we adhere to the following:

- Neither direct nor indirect disciplinary reporting lines between family members or close personal contacts are permitted. If such a situation arises, one party may be required to change jobs within SAP.
- Family members and close personal contacts must not participate in business or employment decisions that may benefit or damage the other employee. This includes hiring, evaluations, promotions, compensation, work assignments, and disciplinary actions, for example.

Report to HR and the Office of Ethics & Compliance (OEC) any situations that affect you and that could be perceived as a personal conflict of interest so that appropriate steps can be taken to protect you, SAP, and the employees involved.

Disclose to HR and the OEC any situations that affect you where there is a family relation, life partnership, or close personal connection between you and a senior leader (that is, for the purposes of the Code, a T4-level people manager or above) to avoid even the appearance of preferential or disadvantageous treatment.

Personal relationships with customers, partners, suppliers, and competitors

If your family and close personal contacts work, or seek to work, for a customer, partner, supplier, or competitor of SAP, you must make certain that these relationships do not exert any undue influence. In particular, you must not share confidential information or allow them to impact your objectivity in the decision-making process.

Occasionally, it may happen that you will interact with family members or close personal contacts who work for an SAP customer, partner, or supplier. This collaboration can occur, for example, during sales negotiations, consulting projects, and procurement. This is a conflict of interest for you, your family member, and your close personal contact at the customer, partner, or supplier. Many of these third parties include a conflict-of-interest clause in their contracts, and you are obliged to notify them of any potential conflict of interest. It is therefore mandatory for you to disclose such relationships immediately to your manager and to the OEC.
You must also never use your influence to secure a job at an SAP customer, partner, or supplier for a family member or close personal contact, regardless of how the person became aware of the position. The required recruitment procedures of the SAP customer, partner, or supplier must be followed.

4.3.5 FINANCIAL INVESTMENT IN OTHER COMPANIES

You must not have any financial interest in the businesses of customers, partners, suppliers, or competitors of SAP, where this could lead to a conflict of interest with SAP or create the appearance of such a conflict. A conflict of interest relating to a financial interest is present especially if:

- Within the context of your employment at SAP, you have influence on SAP-related decisions regarding a customer, partner, supplier, or competitor that could potentially be used for personal financial gain.
- You have a capital stake in an SAP customer, partner, supplier, or competitor that gives you influence on decisions made at the customer, partner, supplier, or competitor and that you potentially could use to gain a financial advantage.

We expect that you are loyal to our company and act in the interest of SAP.

4.4 Protection of SAP Assets

We all use various tangible and intangible SAP assets to help us perform our work. These assets are vital to support SAP business both internally and externally, and as such, you need to look after them and manage them appropriately. You must commit to guard against waste, abuse, or attacks on these assets and use them only for the purpose for which they were purchased in our business environment. Once assets are obsolete or no longer required, you must return the assets to SAP.

Always keep in mind that the assets belong to SAP and were purchased for business purposes.

Before ordering goods and services, make sure you have the necessary spending authority. You must order goods or services on behalf of SAP only for business purposes and to fulfill your work requirements. SAP does not permit ordering for private use or for use by family and close personal contacts.

If in doubt, contact the Global Security, Global IT Asset Management, or Global Procurement teams.

4.5 Internal Gift Giving

Giving a gift is a nice way to express appreciation and thanks to a person or group. However, gifts between colleagues or teams are considered private matters, and in general, you should not expect to be reimbursed. Exceptions are possible only for limited defined scenarios and with the approval of your manager and the Market Unit Chief Financial Officer (CFO).

DocuSign Envelope ID: 26B5A6CE-9CA5-4E7B-ADCF-E88EB513A166

At SAP, we all have a personal responsibility to uphold and ensure the letter and spirit of our Code in our individual roles every day. It is important that we are aware of, and never intentionally violate, relevant laws and regulations. Violating relevant laws, regulations, or this Code, or encouraging others to do so, exposes SAP to risk, including risk to our reputation, and there-fore may result in disciplinary action up to and including termination of employment.

Violations of laws or regulations may also result in legal proceedings and penalties including, in some circumstances, civil and criminal penalties that could affect us personally and professionally in addition to a risk of adverse consequences to SAP.

We all have a personal responsibility to uphold and ensure the letter and spirit of our Code.

5.1 Fraud

Our commitment to honesty and integrity demands that we prevent, counter, and investigate fraud wherever it occurs. Fraud can have a devastating effect on our company and our environment by destroying trust, resulting in significant financial loss and other long-term business repercussions. Fraud is misrepresenting or concealing the truth to cause a loss of property or money to another person or SAP. This may include, for example, theft of materials or supplies, falsifying expense claims, or improper reporting of financial transactions and resource allocation.

We expect you, as well as our partners, suppliers, and customers, to report immediately any instances of fraud, either suspected or actual, to the Office of Ethics & Compliance (OEC) or through other channels, such as Speak Out at SAP. This helps us to prevent losses and to reduce fraud in the future.

5.2 Organizational Conflicts of Interest

Organizational Conflicts of Interest ("OCI") can arise when existing SAP relationships create an actual or potential conflict of interest for SAP on a government contract. It also can arise when the nature of the work to be performed by SAP creates a situation of actual or potential conflict of interest relating to another government contract that SAP has or is pursuing.

SAP may have access to a competitor's cost or other proprietary information if that competitor is a subcontractor on a government contract, which could provide an unfair competitive advantage when competing on another government contract.

If SAP participates in a government procurement process that may give rise to an actual or potential OCI, you must consult both SAP Global Government Affairs and the Office of Ethics & Compliance (OEC) for advance review and approval of the bid. Although an OCI may exist, participation in procurement is possible if the government contracting officer agrees that sufficient actions are undertaken to avoid, neutralize, or mitigate the actual or potential OCI, and that has been properly documented. If you are concerned that a potential OCI may exist, you must report this concern to the OEC.

5.3 Bribery and Corruption

We Win the Right Way!
We have zero tolerance for all forms of bribery and corruption. We will forgo business opportunities rather than pay bribes or facilitate corruption.

This approach is fully supported by the SAP Executive Board and the senior leadership team.

5.3.1 GENERAL INFORMATION AND PROVISIONS

We observe all applicable anticorruption treaties and laws of the countries in which we do business.

Giving and receiving benefits (including money, gifts, meals, and invitations to events) can help to build good working relationships and goodwill among companies and individuals. However, they may also be perceived as an improper advantage and raise concerns regarding our integrity and independence. They can also create a conflict of interest (or the appearance of impropriety) and even violate laws.

This means that you may not offer, promise, receive, or give anything of value to improperly influence decision making or an action. This requirement applies not only to every one of us at SAP but also to individuals and companies working with or on behalf of SAP, including those with close personal connections to the recipient.

The offering and acceptance of any benefits must meet the following basic principles:

- Serve a legitimate business purpose (that is, encourage or improve a business relationship) without the intention of an unfair advantage
- Observe the applicable Value Limits for country, format, and specific target group as published on SAP One
- Ensure adherence to all applicable laws and internal policies
- Be made in a transparent manner

Bribery may take many forms under the guise of common business or social practices. If you suspect potential bribery, you must respond in an appropriate manner as set forth in this Code. If in doubt, consult the Office of Ethics & Compliance (OEC).

We work closely with our ecosystem to achieve our goal of making the world run better. However, third parties can increase our risks particularly regarding corruption and bribery. To avoid any illegal act, all business transactions through a member of our ecosystem must be in full compliance with all applicable laws, rules, regulations, and policies. We depend on reputable business partners that behave fairly, ethically, and correctly in all business activities.

5.3.2 MEALS AND INVITATIONS TO EVENTS

You may offer or accept meals and invitations to events, provided they meet the above-mentioned basic principles.

When you offer meals and invitations to third parties, you must adhere to the policies for business events and hospitality.

The event type (on-site or virtual, business, or hospitality); the invited guests (government officials, special guests, and accompanying persons); and timing (parties in a competitive bid or sales cycle) influence whether the meal or invitation is allowed.

5.3.3 GIFTS

In general, you may offer or accept gifts and gifts in kind to or from current or prospective customers, suppliers, competitors, or partners if the above-mentioned basic principles are met and exclusions below are followed.

No gifts may be offered or accepted with a value higher than that identified in the Value Limits published on SAP One.

Gifts to government officials or public sector employees are strictly prohibited, as are gifts to customers during a competitive sales cycle.

In some contexts, and in some countries in a business relationship, it is customary to exchange gifts of higher value. In these cases, you may accept these gifts in the name of SAP but immediately hand them over to the Office of Ethics & Compliance (OEC) to be used for the wider benefit of SAP employees or as a donation to a good cause. You may not personally keep these gifts.

5.3.4 FACILITATION PAYMENTS AND CASH OR CASH EQUIVALENTS

The offer or acceptance of cash or cash equivalents (for example gift cards, vouchers, checks, or gift certificates) is not permitted.

Facilitation or “grease” payments are also prohibited.

5.3.5 CORPORATE SPONSORSHIPS, MEMBERSHIPS, AND DONATIONS

SAP may occasionally engage in sponsorship activities with other organizations to support our purpose and in return for legitimate commercial benefits such as branding rights and hospitality. We also make donations to support charitable causes.

As a large and diverse global company, we are a member of many trade associations, coalitions, and professional societies that represent the interests of the technology industry and the broader business community. We also advocate on public policy issues of importance to SAP and the communities we serve.

We never engage in sponsorship activities, make donations, or use memberships for improper purposes to influence a business decision or those actions that are contrary to applicable laws, regulations, and our policies. The engagement in all three of these activities requires approval through the official process, up to and including approval by the Office of Ethics & Compliance (OEC).

To avoid even the appearance of inappropriate influence, we reject sponsorship activities with, or donation requests from customers and their families and close personal contacts during a competitive sales cycle.

5.4 Artificial Intelligence

SAP believes that artificial intelligence (AI) has the potential to unlock boundless potential for businesses, governments, and society. As with similar innovations or technological advancements, AI also has the potential to create economic, political, and social challenges, depending upon how it is used and implemented.

We are committed to comply with all legislation in this regard. We are also committed to the ethical development, deployment, and sale of SAP developed AI systems. Our Global AI Policy defines a group-wide minimum standard for the development, deployment and sale or use of SAP AI applications and solutions, including assignment of clear responsibilities within SAP.

The policy is based on the SAP Guiding Principles for Artificial Intelligence:

- We are driven by our values.
- We design for people.
- We enable business beyond bias.
- We strive for transparency and integrity in all that we do.
- We uphold quality and safety standards.
- We place data protection and privacy at our core.
- We engage with the wider societal challenges of AI.

5.5 Intellectual Property, Confidential Information, and Personal Data and Privacy Rights

SAP is a trusted leader in driving business transformation and value through technology innovation. We are all responsible for protecting the intellectual property, confidentiality, integrity, and availability of confidential, personal, and proprietary information and data, no matter if it belongs to SAP, us as employees, or others. We must ensure that personal data is processed according to data protection and privacy rules and regulations worldwide. The respective experts at Global Legal, especially the Cyber, Litigation, and IP teams; Global Security; and Global Data Protection & Privacy are at hand to guide us in this endeavor.

5.5.1 INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY

SAP intellectual property (IP) is one of our most valuable assets. This includes confidential information, patents, copyrights, trademarks, and trade secrets. Therefore, it is vital that you take appropriate steps to protect SAP IP. It is also important that you respect the IP rights of third parties, including our competitors, and avoid unauthorized use.

5.5.2 CONFIDENTIAL INFORMATION

The exchange of information is a vital part of every business. Before sharing any SAP information, you need to evaluate the appropriate classification. It is appropriate to share publicly available information about SAP. For exchange of all other information, either by SAP or a third party, we require a nondisclosure agreement (NDA) or other appropriate agreement.

You should also avoid being exposed to confidential information of third parties in the course of your business unless necessary.

5.5.3 PROTECTION OF PERSONAL DATA AND PRIVACY RIGHTS

SAP is committed to and strives to protect the rights of individuals, particularly the right to data protection and privacy, strengthening our reputation as a sustainable and trustworthy partner in the market. We have implemented safeguards to help protect the fundamental rights of everyone whose data is processed by SAP, whether they are customers, suppliers, partners, prospects, employees, or applicants. Therefore, all of us must respect applicable data protection and privacy rights when processing personal data during our daily work.

You are responsible for ensuring that all practices involving the processing of personal data within the course of your work comply with applicable laws and internal regulations. You are required to handle all personal data that could be accessed within the scope or your role with strict confidentiality, and not to use this data without authorization. Processing means any operation that is performed on personal data, whether or not by automated means. 5.6 Insider Trading and Inside Information

In numerous jurisdictions, publicly traded financial instruments such as shares and bonds, and their derivatives, are subject to strict statutory rules. These regulations prohibit the unlawful disclosure of inside information and its use in trading.

You must ensure that when trading in publicly traded financial instruments of SAP SE or SAP-listed subsidiaries, customers, suppliers, competitors, or partners, you do not do so based on inside information, and you must not unlawfully disclose inside information.

Except in circumstances where the prohibition of insider dealing applies, you may decide at your personal discretion whether to dispose of or acquire SAP SE or an SAP subsidiary's shares or bonds or their derivatives. However, to avoid any implication that you are involved in insider trading, the SAP Executive Board urgently appeals to all of us not to trade in SAP SE or SAP subsidiary's shares or bonds or their derivatives during the official blackout periods. You are asked to comply with this (legally nonbinding) appeal. Deviations from this guideline should be made only in emergencies, for example, where an employee has a sudden unexpected cash requirement. Cases of doubt should be discussed with the SAP SE Capital Market Compliance team beforehand.

If you have questions in this regard, especially about capital market or insider law or the blackout period, contact the SAP SE Capital Market Compliance team.

5.7 Financial Statements, Disclosures, and Internal Accounting Controls

Accurate, complete, and reliable records are crucial to our business to avoid reputational and/or financial damages. We are committed to maintain accurate company records and accounts to ensure compliance with applicable legislations, tax rules, ethical business practices, and to prevent fraudulent activities. We are responsible to ensure that the information we record, process, and analyze is accurate and is recorded in accordance with applicable legal or accounting principles, applying SAP's policies and guidelines. Internal controls need to be in place.

All parties involved need to ensure that these records are made secure and readily available to those with a need to know the information on a timely basis to fulfill internal and external requirements. All company records must be complete, accurate, and reliable in all material respects. There is never a reason to make false or misleading entries. Undisclosed or unrecorded funds, payments, or receipts are inconsistent with our business practices and are prohibited.

5.8 Export Controls and Trade Sanctions

Export control laws regulate exports, re-exports, and in-country transfers of items (including software) that have both military and commercial application. These laws are intended to address national security and other concerns, for example, potential to influence the behavior of a target nation, company, or person. Deliveries of SAP software and services are within the scope of these regulations regardless of how they are delivered.

Trade sanctions impose restrictions on certain countries, regions, entities, or individuals for various economic, diplomatic, and national security reasons. The scope of trade sanctions can range from comprehensive prohibition to do business to specific economic and financial measures. Because of the risk associated with these trade sanctions and as a matter of corporate policy, SAP products and services are not available in certain countries and regions. Furthermore, SAP products and services cannot be sold to entities and individuals with whom transactions are prohibited in accordance with any applicable sanctioned party lists.

Therefore, we follow such laws and regulations, including without limitation the laws of Germany, the European Union, the United States, and applicable local regulations and obligations as stated in applicable documents, which can be found on the Export Control SharePoint.

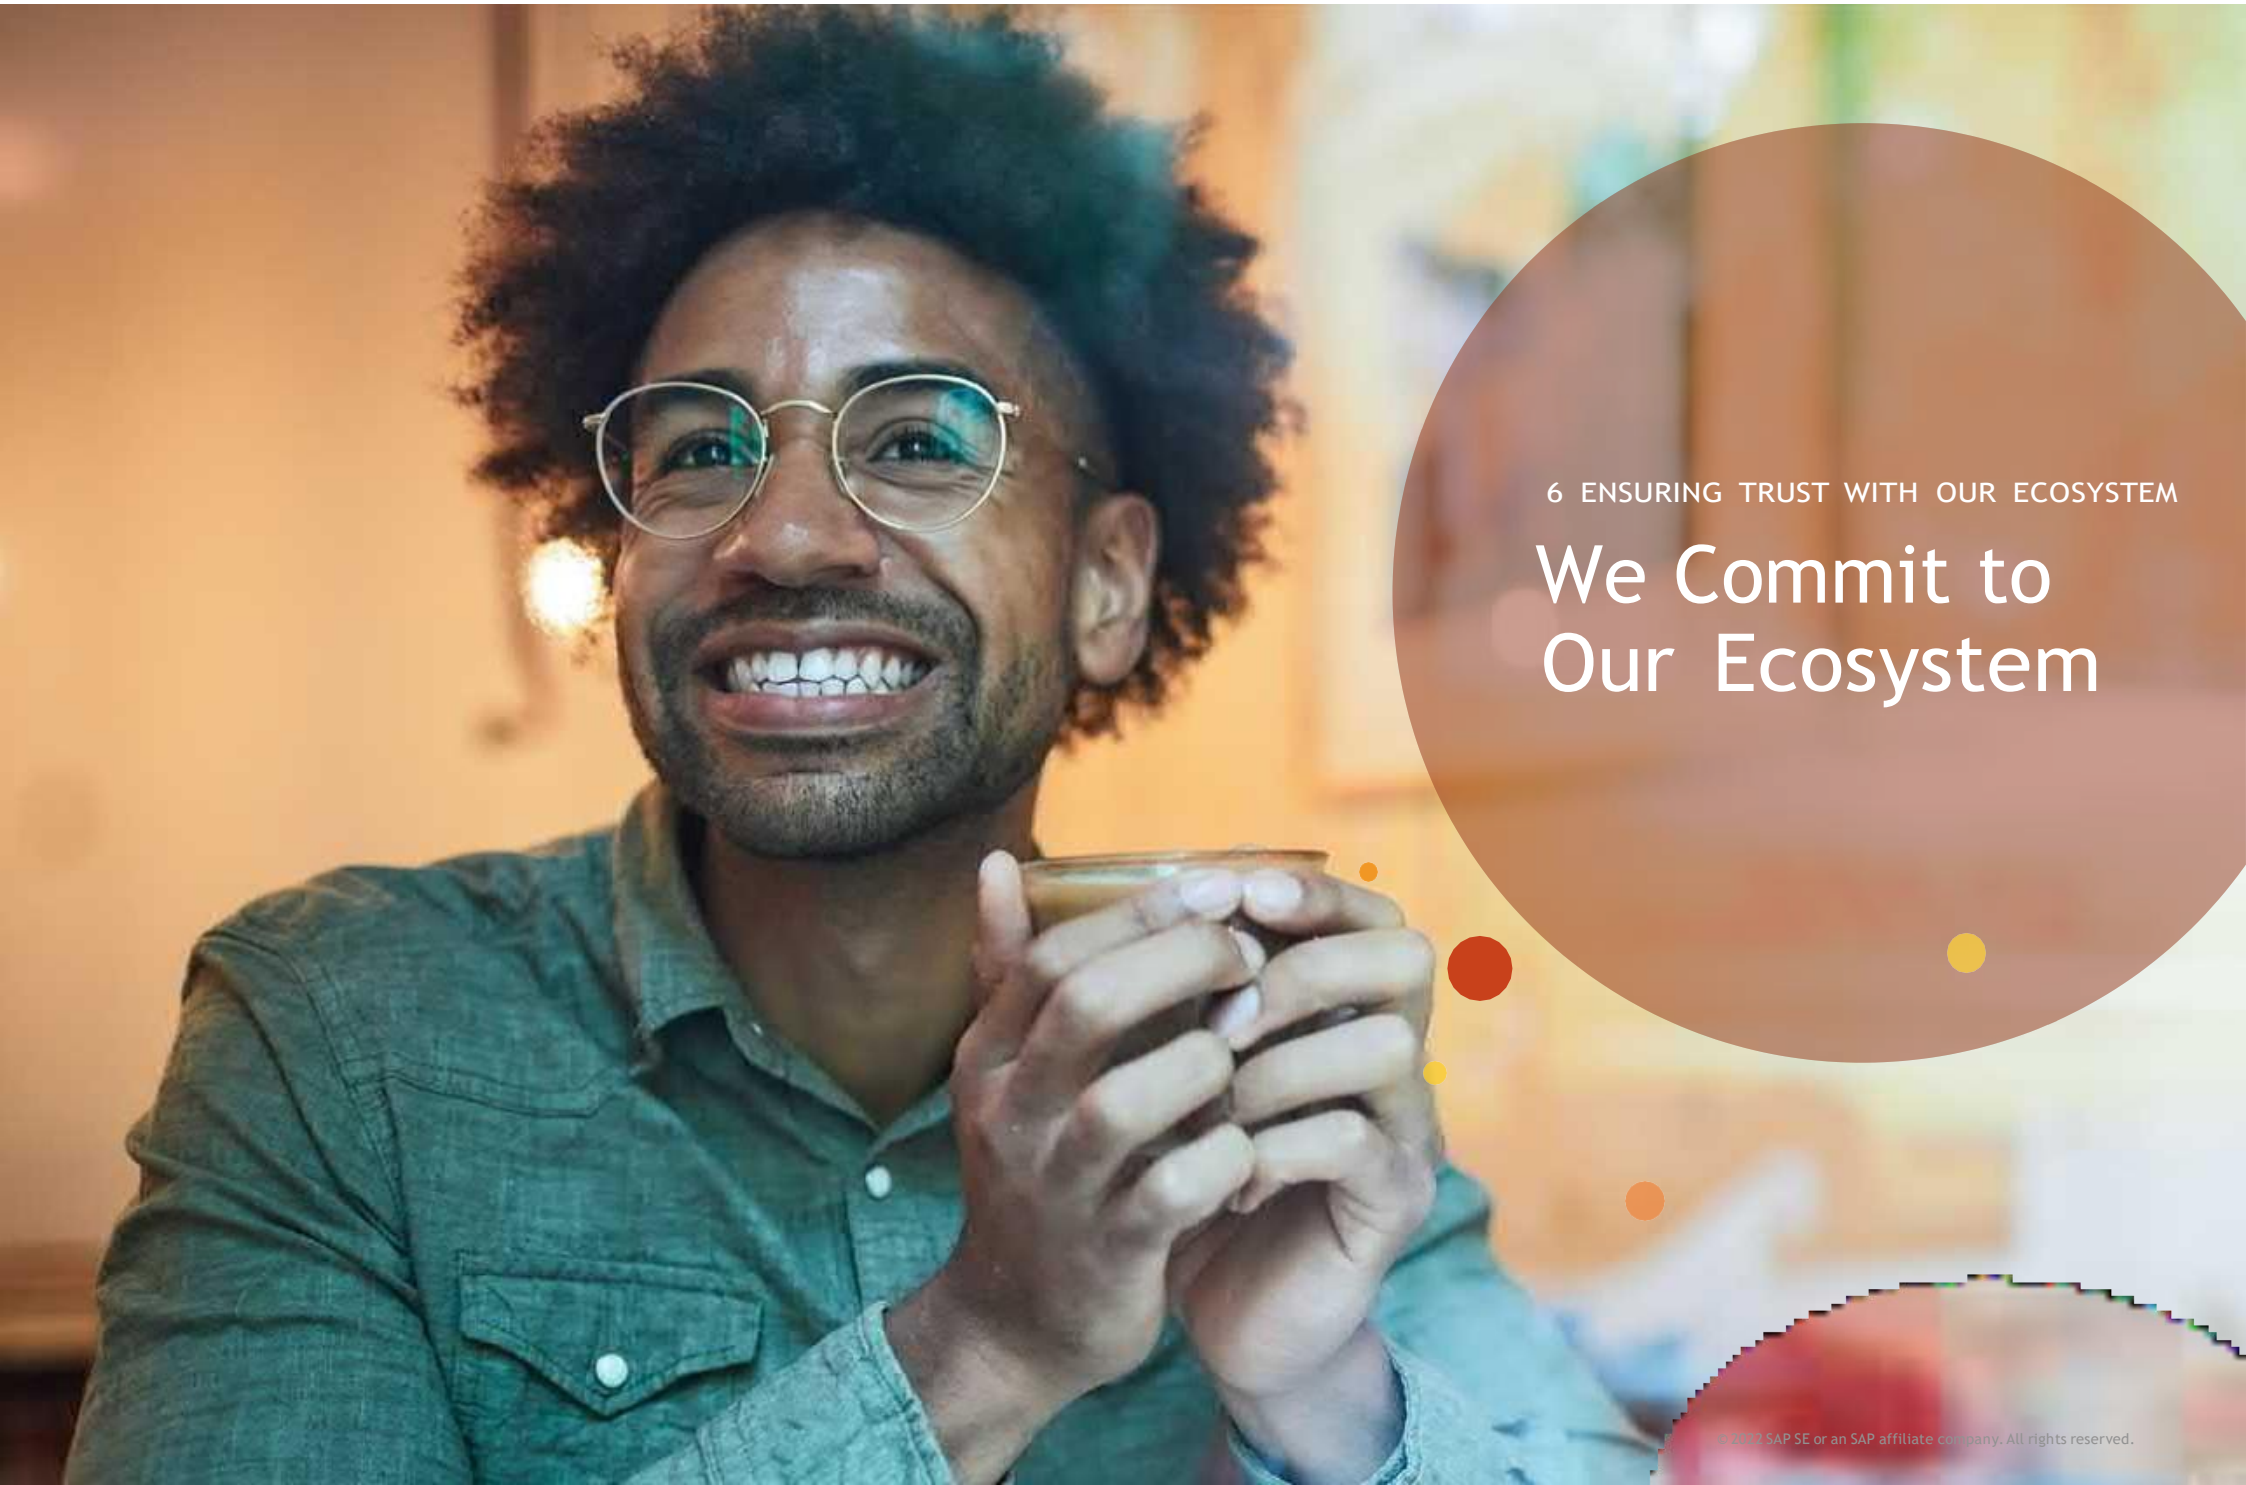
5.9 Anti-Money Laundering and Commitment to Combating the Financing of Terrorism

Money laundering and financing of terrorism are global issues with far-reaching and serious consequences.



Money laundering is the process of converting illegal proceeds so that funds are made to appear legitimate. Very often, this is attempted through cash transactions, as the payer is harder to identify in these cases. For this reason, SAP does not accept cash transactions of €10,000 and above. However, money laundering is not limited to cash transactions. Complex commercial transactions may hide financing for criminal activity such as terrorism, illegal narcotics trade, bribery, and fraud. Involvement in such transactions undermines our integrity, damages our reputation, and can expose SAP and all of us to severe sanctions.

SAP forbids knowing engagement in transactions that facilitate money laundering and financing of terrorism. We take affirmative steps to detect and prevent unacceptable or illegal forms of payment and financial transactions. Anti-money laundering laws of many countries and international organizations require transparency of payments and the identity of all parties to transactions. We observe all applicable anti-money laundering and combating terrorist financing laws of the countries in which we do business. We will conduct business only with reputable customers and business partners involved in legitimate business activities and transactions.

6.1 Business Relationships with Organizations

We do not maintain business relationships with organizations that are themselves, or are supporters of, antisocial forces, terrorists, or criminal groups.

6.2 Contractual Changes and Unauthorized Commitments

Transparency in business relationships is crucial to the success of SAP. Our business partners and investors expect us to operate in a fair and transparent manner. To further our goal of transparency, we must make sure that commitments to our business partners are accurate, truthful, appropriately approved in advance, and ultimately incorporated into written agreements that cover the full understanding of all involved parties. All parties should be aware of the entire understanding of our agreements.

You must not agree to any changes, qualifications, or amendments to SAP contracts or general terms and conditions, whether by supplementary agreement, side letter, or otherwise, without proper approval. Also, any other unauthorized commitments are strictly prohibited.

Any of these actions made without proper oversight or internal controls could lead to accounting and financial errors and irregularities and could expose SAP to potentially fraudulent activities.

6.3 Reciprocity Deals

We must ensure that we do not enter reciprocity deals in which SAP accepts goods and services from another company only on the condition that the other company obtains SAP products or services in exchange.

6.4 Conduct with Customers

6.4.1 BOYCOTTS

An agreement with a customer, supplier, competitor, or partner of SAP not to conduct business with, or to not deliver goods or provide services to any other customer, supplier, competitor, partner, or service provider, is unlawful. Therefore, you must be extremely careful if you discuss with one of our suppliers the competitive terms of another supplier. Discussions of this sort raise suspicion of an unlawful understanding. A unilateral decision not to sell to a particular customer can become a problem if SAP has such a strong position in the market concerned that the customer is dependent on its contractual relationship with us.

6.4.2 EXCLUSIVE CONTRACTS

You must not ask customers to buy products and services exclusively from us as SAP or to refrain from buying the products of a competitor if this would impact competition in the market.

6.5 Conduct with Suppliers

6.5.1 GENERAL

Guided by the Global Procurement organization, we must govern our conduct with suppliers by sound judgment and absolute integrity. The most important consideration is the upholding of SAP's interests.

We must ensure that SAP's suppliers comply with the legal requirements in the country of manufacture and country of sale.

Accordingly, you must not coerce any supplier to buy SAP products in return for SAP's purchase of that supplier's goods or services. Naturally, however, you may seek to sell products to our suppliers as you do to any other customer.

Relationships with our suppliers often include access to trade secrets and suppliers' know-how. In that regard, you must exercise the utmost care and ensure compliance with the Code. Do not pass on information concerning a supplier's problems or shortcomings to any other supplier or partner or any other person outside of SAP.

6.5.2 BIDS, ESTIMATES, AND PROOF OF SERVICES AND GOODS

We must ensure that all qualified suppliers are fully and equally notified of SAP's technical and commercial bid requirements. The same applies to any details, changes, and additions to these requirements subsequently provided.

SAP considers the awarding of any contract based on the long-term cost to SAP, including the costs associated with defective goods and services, as well as the value of the long-term business relationship with SAP suppliers.

Before approving invoices for goods or services, ensure that you have verified that those goods or services have been provided.

6.5.3 EXTERNAL CONSULTANTS

When engaging external consultants, you must ensure that:

- Commission and consulting contracts are always concluded in writing
- Payments are made only for activities that are usually remunerated and are lawful

6.6 Conduct with Competitors

6.6.1 GENERAL

One of the most serious infringements of the provisions of competition law is the existence of an understanding between competitors. Agreements and understandings amongst competitors about pricing, conditions of sale, volume of production, or the sharing of markets are strictly unlawful. You must not participate in agreements or understandings of this nature. The Field Legal team can provide detailed guidance in your day-to-day business.

6.6.2 PRICE FIXING AMONG COMPETITORS

All forms of price fixing among competitors are forbidden. This ban also includes all agreements and understandings that only indirectly affect prices or other conditions of sale, such as discounts. You must not participate in setting maximum and minimum prices or exchanging information about future pricing models with competitors. In individual cases, it may be necessary – as part of a reseller agreement – to provide information to the resale partner, who may also be a competitor, about the future pricing model so that internal licensing payments can be adjusted. You must not convey such information without first checking with the Global Legal team on the implications under competition law.

6.6.3 COMPETITIVE RESTRICTIONS

Joint ventures, collaboration agreements, and mergers among competitors can affect free competition. In many cases, they require official approval. Often their legality also must be checked in multiple systems of law because they can have consequences in other countries. Therefore, you must ensure that the Global Legal team checks the legality of such plans as early as possible and, in any case, before they are implemented.

Contact with competitors

You must not discuss internal matters with competitors. This includes matters such as pricing and conditions of sale, costs, overviews of the market, organizational processes, or other confidential information, from which competitors could draw competitive advantage over SAP.

Obtaining competitor information

We at SAP have a legitimate interest in obtaining information about competitors and evaluating all published information about its competing companies (for example, publications about products and pricing). However, you must not seek to obtain trade secrets or other confidential or secret information about a competitor using dishonest means.

You must not accept, read, or use information about products and plans of competitors that is identified or identifiable as confidential information unless you are authorized by the competitor to do so.

SAP receives a net benefit from competitive information only when it is obtained lawfully and ethically. Therefore, we seek to avoid exposure to competitive information that is confidential, is otherwise restricted, or has no legitimate source. Actual or alleged infringement or misappropriation of competitors' confidential information or intellectual property rights may lead to litigation, which, in turn, can result in monetary loss and the inability to provide certain products or services to our customers. In addition, actual or alleged infringement or misappropriation may also damage SAP's reputation as a trustworthy business partner.

Accordingly, you may gather and use nonconfidential information about competitors, including information that can be found on competitors' Web sites.

You always must keep in mind that we are legally prohibited from:

- Collecting confidential competitive information
- Making untrue statements about competitors
- Gathering competitive information in breach of a contract
- Misrepresenting the relationship to SAP to obtain competitive information
- Violating the copyrights of a competitor
- Hiring third parties to engage in such practices

6.7 Conduct with Partners

Partners are very important to our company. Our partners serve as our ambassadors and support our varied business interests. That is why we must trust our partners, be loyal, and treat every partner with equality and equity. Presenting a consistent and aligned message is in the best interest of SAP and our partners.

You must present our partners with equal opportunities, always be objective, and provide transparency. Ensure that you treat them without bias or unjust preference. For example, you must be equitable when handling competing bids from several partners for the same customer. For you to ensure the best experience for our customers, every opportunity requires trustworthy collaboration with our partners, thereby creating a productive environment to deliver a successful multichannel go-to-market approach.

If a partner is also a customer, supplier, or competitor of SAP, you must also observe this Code's rules concerning customers, suppliers, and competitors. For any questions related to conduct with partners, contact the Partner Ecosystem Success organization.

7.1 Communication

We must ensure that we communicate clearly, effectively, and responsibly. It safeguards a high standard of dissemination of information concerning SAP's business activities, strategy, or other company affairs and ensures that we act in accordance with applicable laws and regulations at all times.

Only employees who are expressly authorized to communicate on behalf of SAP may engage with members of the media, industry analysts, government representatives, or other influencers. SAP-related contact with these audiences must be coordinated and authorized by SAP Global Communications. Any contact with the financial community must be coordinated and authorized by SAP Investor Relations.

We encourage communication among employees, customers, partners, and others. Be polite, honest, and respectful, and always identify yourself and make clear whether you are speaking on behalf of yourself or speaking on behalf of SAP.

Social media enables us to learn from and share information with our stakeholders, as well as communicate with the public about our company.

In addition to following all company policies, a general rule to remember when using social media is to think about the effect of statements that you make. Keep in mind that these transmissions are permanent and easily transferable and can affect our company's reputation and relationships with colleagues, customers, partners, and others.

Your employment postings on Web sites and social media platforms may include the fact that you work for SAP, your job title, a high-level job description, and your general office location. However, no specific project or initiative details or proprietary software information or names should be included.

Do not disclose internal, confidential, or proprietary information about our business, our suppliers, our partners, or our customers. Review the social media guidelines before posting any material.

SAP Marketing and SAP Global Communications, in collaboration with Global Legal counterparts, provides guidelines to help you when communicating about SAP to ensure that statements about our company, products, customers, and partners are truthful and defensible.

7.2 Human Rights

We respect, support, and promote human rights throughout our own business activities as well as along our value chain. Human rights refer to basic rights and freedoms that belong to every person. These are recognized in the International Bill of Human Rights and the International Labor Organization Declaration on Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work, such as the prohibition of forced labor, modern slavery, and human trafficking.

We take guidance from the United Nations' Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights to integrate human rights considerations into our standard business practices. We maintain a range of policies and procedures designed to ensure that we treat everyone with respect and to include actions to mitigate the risk of forced labor, modern slavery, human trafficking, or other salient human rights risks occurring in our own business or along the value chain.

You are required to comply with all applicable laws, regulations, company policies, and fundamental principles relating to human rights. We also expect our business partners to share our commitment to the advancement of human rights and to avoid complicity in human rights abuses.

We encourage you to raise any questions or concerns relating to human rights and ask you to report potential breaches through the various reporting channels available.

We strive to be a role model of a sustainable company and enable our customers to create positive social, environmental, and economic impact within planetary boundaries. Led by our Sustainability organization, we continually improve and invest in SAP's environmental performance, enabling transparency and protecting our planet. Therefore, we conduct business in an environmentally responsible manner and comply with relevant environmental laws, regulations, and standards.

We commit to reducing negative environmental impacts and preventing pollution by reducing resource and water consumption, carbon emissions, energy, and waste, including electronic waste, among others. 7.5 Political Activities

Society is partly determined and shaped by politics and the political activity of its citizens.

7.5.1 PERSONAL POLITICAL ACTIVITY, CONTRIBUTIONS, AND COMMUNICATION

SAP is proud that we are socially engaged and that we participate in the political process.

Your political engagement should take place outside of your working hours. Although individuals may make political contributions, these are not reimbursed by SAP. SAP does not make direct contributions for political purposes to political parties, politicians, or political organizations other than through event sponsorships and related marketing as allowed by law and specifically approved by SAP Global Government Affairs and the Office of Ethics & Compliance (OEC).

If you are engaged in political activities, make sure that this reflects your own personal view and do not give the impression that any of these activities are connected to SAP.

7.5.2 LOBBYING

Policymaking and legislation have a significant impact on our business. We are committed to engaging appropriately in the public policy process as an important means of enhancing shareholder value, a fundamental principle for free and democratic societies.

SAP engages with governments around the world on public policy issues that are core to our business. Lobbying is an appropriate way for us to educate policymakers about the legitimate interests of SAP and to participate in political decision-making processes. We believe that by sharing our expertise and communicating our position on certain topics, we contribute responsibly to policymaking, but these communications must be conducted and reported in compliance with all applicable laws.

It is our policy to comply with the lobbying laws and restrictions of every jurisdiction where we conduct business, and to be as transparent as possible in lobbying activities and the engagement of lobbyists. As the regulation of lobbying activity varies widely across jurisdictions, a detailed knowledge of the legal requirements is needed. Lobbying activities are therefore solely managed by SAP Global Government Affairs.

7.5.3 MEMBERSHIPS IN PROFESSIONAL OR POLITICAL ORGANIZATIONS

In principle, we believe that memberships in professional organizations are worth supporting, as amongst other things, they provide us with the ability to take part in shaping and developing standards and best practices of the profession. However, we as SAP act very cautiously in our political activities. If SAP pays for your membership in a group that has political affiliation or appears to be associated with it, you must align with SAP Global Government Affairs before becoming a member. Of course, you may become a private member in such organization at any time. However, SAP does not reimburse any costs or expenses

For information on corporate memberships, see the "Corporate Sponsorships, Memberships, and Donations" section of this Code.

CONFIDENTIALITY DECLARATION * SAP GROUP

PREAMBLE

In the course of your employment with SAP, you have committed yourself per your employment contract to treat confidential any confidential information to which you are being granted with access or otherwise gain knowledge of in the course of your employment.

Applicable statutory requirements have made it necessary to adapt this confidentiality agreement.

The following Confidentiality Declaration accommodates these applicable requirements. By signing this declaration, it will become part of your employment contract with SAP and thereby replace any former general, that means not project- related, agreements between you and SAP with regard to this topic.

CONFIDENTIALITY DECLARATION

In consideration of my employment within the SAP Group (SAP SE and its affiliates – hereinafter "SAP") and disclosure by my employer or SAP of Confidential Information, I acknowledge the obligation to commit myself to confidentiality and hereby covenant and agree as follows:

d) Information of my employer and/or SAP, or any of SAP's customers, partners, suppliers, employees, consultants, co-venture partners or investment companies submitted for study, evaluation or use; or any other information not generally known to the public which, if illegitimately used or disclosed, could reasonably be expected to adversely affect the business of my employer or SAP;

e) any information that is protected by laws and regulations against unlawful use or disclosure (e.g. bank secrecy and telecommunication secrecy).

1.3 Information shall not be regarded as Confidential Information which:

DocuSign Envelope ID: 26B5A6CE-9CA5-4E7B-ADCF-E88EB513A166

b) was in my possession, known to or independently established by me, without an obligation to keep it confidential, before such information was disclosed to me by my employer and/or SAP or contractors of my employer or SAP;

c) is or becomes public knowledge after such information was disclosed to me through no fault of mine, or

d) is or becomes lawfully available to me from a source other than SAP which is not bound to a non-disclosure agreement by my employer and/or SAP.

It shall not constitute a breach of confidentiality if I must disclose Confidential Information in respect of a legal obligation to testify before a court or an administrative authority.

1.4 I shall keep all Confidential Information confidential and I shall not disclose any Confidential Information to any person other than authorized by SAP on a need to know basis and only for the purpose of fulfilling my duties for SAP. I undertake to disclose Confidential Information to third parties only with prior approval by SAP.

1.6 I am obliged to adhere to any applicable SAP Policy aiming to protect Confidential Information, including but not limited to SAP's Security Policy, Data Protection and Privacy Policy and the related standards, or any amendment or new version thereof.

2 DATA PROTECTION

2.1 I am obliged to observe confidentiality regarding personal data that I may have access to or otherwise gain knowledge of in the course of my employment, and to process and use them only as instructed by my employer for business functional purposes only (i.e. “Confidentiality” as set forth in Art. 5 para 1 lit. f, Art. 28 para 3 lit. b, Art. 29 and Art. 32 para 4 General Data Protection Regulation - GDPR).

3 PROFESSIONAL SECRETS

3.1 I acknowledge that during my activities for SAP I may obtain access to or knowledge about information of customers whose profession, due to relevant national laws, imposes a professional secrecy obligation upon them, and who are therefore subject to exceptional confidentiality. These may include physicians, lawyers, statutory auditors, tax advisors as well as hospitals, private health-, accident- or life-insurances or pharmacies.

3.2 When engaging service providers that will contribute in their professional services, such customers with a professional secrecy obligation must obey additional binding legal requirements aside from regular data protection obligations, which may derive from national professional- or penal law. One of these requirements is that service providers and their staff must be sworn to secrecy in a particular manner.

3.3 I acknowledge that, for legal reasons, I may be regarded as a person that contributes to the professional services of someone who bears a professional secrecy obligation, if and to the extent I will be granted with access to customer data which fall within the scope of such national professional- or penal laws ("Professional Secrets"). I have been informed and I am aware that

- relevant national law may make it an offense for a person to unlawfully disclose another's Professional Secrets that he or she was entrusted with in the course of their employment activity (e.g. in Germany sec. 203 para 4 sent. 1 German Penal Code or in France Article 226-13 French Code Penal),
- I may claim a right to refuse to give evidence towards state or government institutions with regard to Professional Secrets and that I am obliged to exercise this right (e.g. towards government institutions in Germany according to sec. 53a of the German code of the criminal procedure).

3.4 I therefore undertake to obtain knowledge of Professional Secrets, to which I may be granted with access during my activity, only as much as is necessary to fulfill my contractual obligations under my employment. I undertake to treat these data strictly confidential and to protect them against disclosure by third parties.

4 TELECOMMUNICATIONS SECRECY

4.1 I acknowledge that during my activities for SAP I may obtain access to or knowledge about information which may fall within the scope of telecommunications secrecy due to relevant national telecommunications law, and who are therefore subject to exceptional confidentiality.

4.2 Telecommunications law may be applicable if SAP commercially provides telecommunications services, and when I may contribute in such telecommunication services and be granted with access to data which fall within the scope of telecommunications services in the course of my employment with SAP.

4.3 The telecommunications secrecy comprises the content of telecommunications and the detailed circumstances thereof, particularly the fact of whether a person is or has been involved in telecommunications traffic. The telecommunications secrecy also covers the detailed circumstances surrounding unsuccessful call attempts (together "Telecommunications Secrets").

4.4 I have been informed and I am aware that relevant national law may make it an offense for a person to unlawfully disclose Telecommunications Secrets that he or she was entrusted with in the course of their employment activity (e.g. in Germany sec. 88 Telecommunications Act or sec. 206 Penal Code, in Austria sec. 119 Penal Code and sec. 4 Telecommunications Act, in Switzerland Art 43 Telecommunications Act).

DocuSign Envelope ID: 26B5A6CE-9CA5-4E7B-ADCF-E88EB513A166

4.5 I therefore undertake to obtain knowledge of Telecommunications Secrets, to which I may be granted with access during my activity, only as much as is necessary to fulfill my contractual obligations under my employment. I undertake to treat these data strictly confidential and to protect them against disclosure by third parties.

5 GENERAL PROVISIONS

5.1 My obligation to confidentiality, data protection and regarding the use of Confidential Information shall remain in force after termination or expiration of my employment and/or my access to Confidential Information.

5.2 This Statement expresses the complete understanding of the parties with respect to safeguarding confidentiality and data protection and supersedes all prior general, that means not project- related, proposals, agreements, statements, representations and understandings. Amendments to this Statement must be in writing in order to be effective.

5.3 The failure to exercise any right provided in this Statement shall not be a waiver of prior or subsequent rights.

5.4 I am aware that any misappropriation of any of the Confidential Information in violation of this Statement or applicable law may cause reputational damages or legal consequences for my employer and/or SAP. I acknowledge that any violation of this Statement may result in disciplinary action up to and including dismissal from employment as well as personal liability. Furthermore, it may lead to an administrative fine or, in case of a violation of applicable data protection-, unfair competition- or penal laws to criminal penalties or imprisonment. The breach of a Professional Secret may result in criminal penalties or, depending on the circumstances of the breach, imprisonment (e.g. in Germany up to a year, and if the breach occurred for money or with the intent to enrich or harm someone, up to 2 years or punitive fine).

5.5 If any term or provision hereof is or may become invalid or unenforceable, the remaining terms and provisions hereof shall be unimpaired and shall remain in full force and effect. The invalid or unenforceable term or provision shall be replaced by a term and provision that is valid and enforceable and that comes closest to expressing the intention of such invalid or unenforceable term or provision. If the Statement proved to be incomplete, a provision shall apply which matches the sense and purpose of the Statement and, in case of its consideration, would have been agreed.

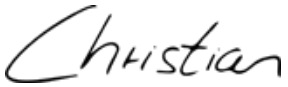
Dear Colleagues,

In the past few years, the world has faced exceptional challenges, uncertainties, and complexity. The way we live, the way we do business, and the way we work has been profoundly affected. Technology has become crucial to handling these challenges and changes.

This fast rate of change has increased the focus on building and maintaining trust as the foundation for growth and innovation. As such, the interplay between technology and trust will be one of the key drivers of economic growth in the future.

TRUST MATTERS.



Being a trusted partner for our customers, partners, suppliers, and colleagues has always been at the heart of our business, but in today's uncertain environment, it is more important than ever.

At SAP, we always undertake our business efforts with integrity. Our Global Code of Ethics and Business Conduct for Employees is our guide, and helps us protect our colleagues, business, reputation, and ecosystem. It demonstrates that SAP is committed to the highest standards of ethical business and that we expect the same high standards from our partners and suppliers.

It is upon each and every one of us to uphold these standards, adhere to this Code, and speak out if or when we feel something is not right. Our global team of ethics and compliance experts is here for you, to provide the support and guidance needed to make strong, ethical, and compliant choices.

LET'S WIN THE RIGHT WAY.

Best regards,

Christian Klein

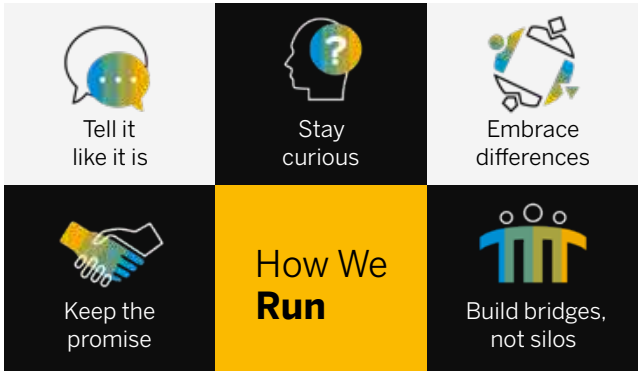
At SAP, our purpose is to help the world run better and improve people's lives. This allows us to deliver on our promise to innovate and help our customers run at their best. We do this by conducting our business activities with integrity – using our global resources and reach to help economy, society, and the environment prosper.



We are respectful and inclusive of our people and our stakeholders, always aiming to make a positive impact on those societies in which we work. We strive for sustainable growth while protecting our environment.

To that end, we do not compromise our values and our commitment to ethical business. This Global Code of Ethics and Business Conduct for Employees ("Code") provides us with the necessary guidance so that we can act with integrity. By making the right choices, based on facts and reason, we build trust with our people and stakeholders together, enabling us to fulfill our purpose and promise.

2.1 Our "How We Run" Behaviors

Our company culture inspires ethical business practices through our established "How We Run" behaviors. These behaviors help define how each of us at SAP can run at our best.

We are all accountable for our actions, behavior, and the way we conduct our business.

As employees, we can demonstrate our commitment to ethics and compliance by embracing our behaviors and ensuring that we:

- Act with integrity and encourage colleagues to do the same.
- Familiarize ourselves with and act in accordance with our policies and guidelines, including this Code.
- Seek help and guidance on matters of compliance – from our manager, HR, Global Legal, or the Office of Ethics & Compliance (OEC).
- Raise concerns over situations relating to potential noncompliance by using our reporting channels. For further information about reporting channels, see the "Speak Out" section of this Code.

If you are a leader, you play a special role in modeling these behaviors to inspire and support employees in creating a foundation of trust.

We need our leaders to do what's right, making SAP better for generations to come:

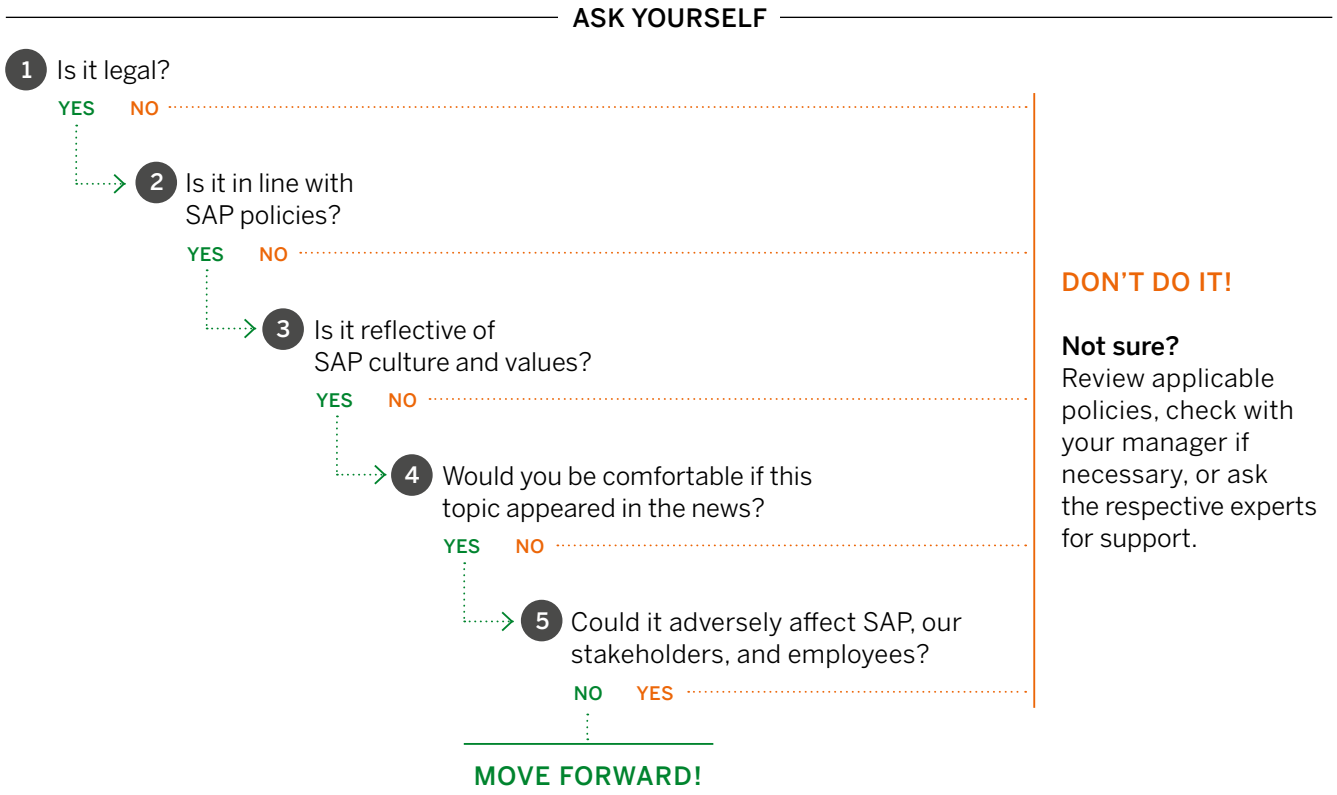
3.1 Ask Yourself

We rely on you and our ecosystem – including customers, partners, and suppliers – to assess every decision and ensure that every action made on behalf of and related to our organization is legal, fair, and compliant with our policies and guidelines, this Code, and any law or regulation.

This Code helps guide your conduct as you do business at SAP. Many of the principles described in this Code are general in nature. The Code cannot cover every situation that may arise. It is a starting point and not the exclusive source of information regarding how we conduct business.



It is our duty to familiarize ourselves with all applicable SAP policies and other governance documents as they provide detailed guidance.

Use common sense and good judgment in applying this Code. If you have any questions about the Code and its application, it is your responsibility to always seek support from one of the resources provided.

If at any time you are unsure of the best course of action, ask yourself these questions to determine the right steps to take:

3.2 Speak Out

Prevention is best; however, if something does go wrong, we count on you to speak out. We rely on you and our ecosystem to report any actual or potential misconduct of which you may become aware.

We can fix a problem only if we are aware of it. The earlier we learn about an issue, the greater the chances to mitigate potential harm to SAP, our employees, and those doing business with us.

If something doesn't feel right, look right, or sound right, it probably is not right. We encourage you to speak out.

We recommend discussing with your management and your Office of Ethics & Compliance (OEC) Field Compliance Officer and report any serious SAP-related compliance concerns using the various reporting channels that SAP provides (see section 3.2.1).

Concerns can also be raised with the Global Ombuds Office (ombudsperson@sap.com).

3.2.1 REPORTING AN ISSUE

Report any serious compliance concerns relating to the Code or any laws and regulations – in good faith, confidentially, and if desired, anonymously – using our Speak Out at SAP tool. Speak Out is available online or via the integrated 24x7 helpline, which has local language support whether you are reporting from inside or outside of SAP.

We ask you to provide as much information as possible when making a report. Mere rumors are not sufficient; however, actual proof of wrongdoing is not necessarily required.

You can also use the following additional reporting channels:

3.2.2 YOUR REPORT MAKES A DIFFERENCE

SAP is committed to thoroughly assessing every report and, where appropriate, conducting careful, objective, and professional investigations of the matter by the respective expert departments (for example, Office of Ethics & Compliance (OEC), Internal Audit, Global HR Compliance). Where appropriate, we will carry out consequence management and apply acquired insights to further strengthen our policies, processes, and controls.

When we carry out an investigation, we require your full cooperation to help resolve a matter.

Investigations may result in consequences related to employment law and external investigations, action in the civil courts, or criminal prosecution.

3.2.3 SAP PROTECTS YOU

We know that it can take courage to report an issue. You may ask yourself the following questions: Is what I am observing really wrongdoing? Will I face consequences if I report? Is it worth it?

SAP does not tolerate any form of retaliation against those who raise concerns in good faith to help protect and prevent damage to SAP. We have various safeguards in place to protect confidentiality of any report made through the reporting channels provided.

For example, we strictly limit access to these reports to a small number of specifically trained and authorized experts. Should any forms of retaliation occur despite our precautions, we ask that you report them. We can draw on additional robust procedures to address your protection.

We equally do not tolerate any personal or false attacks aimed at specific individuals. Dishonest, bad faith, or otherwise abusive reports are prohibited and may result in disciplinary action.

4.1 Diversity and Inclusion, Anti-Discrimination, and Anti-Harassment

4.1.1 DIVERSITY AND INCLUSION

SAP behaviors reflect our values and inspire appreciation for all aspects of diversity and inclusion.

At SAP, every person must be treated with dignity and respect. We proactively promote diversity, inclusion, and social justice and work to ensure that our workforce reflects gender parity and the demographics of the regions where we have employees. We commit ourselves to be respectful, professional, compliant, inclusive, and healthy and to foster employee engagement, spark innovation, and drive customer success.

The Global Diversity & Inclusion Office is at hand for any related questions.

4.1.2 ANTI-DISCRIMINATION AND ANTI-HARASSMENT

We embrace and encourage different perspectives. We are made stronger by our unique combination of diverse characteristics, including but not limited to, culture, race, ethnicity, age, gender, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, physical or mental ability, and different work-life situations. We make every effort to ensure that all stages of the employee lifecycle are inclusive to enable employee success, hold leaders accountable, and build a diverse environment – both internally and among our ecosystem.

Our priority is to provide a work environment where employees, suppliers, customers, and partners can be confident that their integrity, dignity, rights, health, safety, and well-being are valued and respected. Therefore, we commit ourselves to a workplace free from discrimination, harassment, bullying, mobbing, or retaliation.

As exemplars for our “How We Run” behaviors, we all must act as role models.

We encourage you to report to the Global HR Compliance Office any concern or behavior that is inconsistent with our values and the regulations outlined in the SAP Global Anti-Discrimination Policy.

4.2 Healthy Organization

SAP's purpose to make the world run better and improve people's lives includes caring for the health and well-being of everyone at SAP.

Conditions in which people live up to their full potential are mainly defined by an organization's leadership style and working culture. We believe that there is no organizational health without individual health. SAP and our leaders take ownership for workplaces and a caring culture that fosters physical health, safety, and mental well-being, while all employees are empowered to take care of their individual health.

We encourage you to get involved and shape our caring culture and working conditions by using feedback opportunities to "Tell It Like It Is" and help us improve where needed. Our success is tracked in the Business Health Culture Index (BHCI) (annual #Unfiltered employee survey) and the Stress Satisfactions Score (biannual Future of Work Pulse).

The Global Health & Well-Being organization, together with strong partners in Global Real Estate & Facilities, Occupational Safety, Total Rewards, Personal Security, SAP Learning, and HR Global Service Delivery teams, provide the information, education, and support to foster a healthy working culture and a supportive environment for all employees. In doing so, we enable the entire organization to be a role model for safe, healthy, and sustainable people management.

4.3 Conflicts of Interest

4.3.1 PERSONAL CONFLICTS OF INTEREST

We respect your personal interests and your private life. We also expect that you are loyal to our company and act in the interest of SAP. If your private or financial interests or relations collide with those of SAP or may be perceived to collide with SAP's interest, a potential conflict of interest arises.

Potential conflicts of interest can arise from many situations.

Even the appearance of a conflict of interest can be problematic and must be avoided at all times. You are responsible for disclosing any potential conflicts of interest, actual or perceived, as early as possible or as soon as you become aware. Seek advice and, if warranted, approval from the Office of Ethics & Compliance (OEC). If any material changes occur after approval – for example, the duration or tasks of any secondary activities change or the amount of investment increases – you must proactively report these changes for further review and approval.

While there is no exhaustive list of such situations, potential conflicts of interest typically arise from the following scenarios.

4.3.2 SECONDARY ACTIVITIES

A secondary activity, whether paid or unpaid, must not negatively impact either your ability to work for SAP, or your performance. Prior to starting a secondary activity outside of SAP, you must ensure that there is no conflict of interest. Refer to SAP One to determine whether a formal secondary activity declaration is required for your country and the process for reporting. If no specific process is required, report your secondary activity to your manager and the Office of Ethics & Compliance (OEC).

Secondary activities for competitors

Any activity for an SAP competitor is prohibited. This includes, but is not limited to, secondary employment and any other activities such as assuming any board seat, advisory, or supervisory role; performing any marketing or sales activities for competitors or their products and services; or working as an independent party in a contract, as a consultant; or in any other capacity for a competitor. You must not function directly or indirectly or carry out any activity that assists in the marketing or sale of products or services of a competitor of SAP. A competitor is not limited to multinational technology companies; any entity, of any size, can be a competitor if it provides similar software or services to anything provided by SAP. The OEC determines who is classified as a competitor, in alignment with other relevant functions.

Secondary activities for you or your family

You should use caution when you or any family members engage in your own business activities if they are closely related to SAP's business. You must always ensure that these activities do not conflict with the rightful interests of SAP and adhere to these requirements:

- While working at SAP, you must not pursue business that conflicts with the interests of SAP.
- You must not directly or indirectly exploit any business opportunity available to SAP for your own benefit or the benefit of others.

If you develop or sell your own or third-party products, or perform services where SAP offers or is planning to offer similar products or services, you must get prior written approval from your manager and the OEC.

Secondary activities for customers, partners, and suppliers

We discourage any secondary activity for an SAP customer, partner, or supplier. If you want to pursue such an activity, you must get prior written approval from your manager and the OEC. The OEC determines whether the activity falls within SAP's best interests.

4.3.3 BOARD OF DIRECTORS, CORPORATE OFFICER, OR ADVISORY POSITIONS WITH OTHER COMPANIES

Positions as board directors, corporate officers, or consultants are considered a secondary activity and require prior written approval from the Office of Ethics & Compliance (OEC). Any activity that involves decision making or advisory services, or that is linked to a role within a supervisory body for an SAP customer, partner, or supplier is discouraged and is reviewed with scrutiny by the OEC. If the OEC grants approval, your additional role must not affect your loyalty to SAP. You must excuse yourself from voting in decisions that directly or indirectly result or could result in an actual or perceived conflict of interest in terms of your loyalty or preferential treatment towards SAP. If the company becomes a competitor and its status or relationship with SAP changes, you must immediately resign from the position.

Positions with a competitor

You are prohibited from joining the board of directors or holding a position as a corporate officer or an advisor within a competitor of SAP because this directly harms SAP's interests. This also applies to any company that promotes or markets products and services for a competitor of SAP. The OEC determines who or what is classified as a competitor in alignment with other relevant functions.

Positions with a customer, partner, or supplier

Regardless of your position at SAP, you must obtain prior written approval from your manager and the OEC before accepting a board of directors, corporate officer, or advisory position with a customer, partner, or supplier of SAP. The OEC determines whether the activity is within SAP's interests.

4.3.4 PERSONAL RELATIONSHIPS

It is generally accepted that your family and close personal contacts (for example, good friends) can work for SAP, our customers, partners, suppliers, and competitors. Be aware, however, that such circumstances can lead to personal conflicts of interest.

Personal relationships that might affect the interests of SAP and its employees

Your family and close personal contacts may be employed by SAP if there is no actual, possible, or perceived conflict of interest. For that reason, we adhere to the following:

- Neither direct nor indirect disciplinary reporting lines between family members or close personal contacts are permitted. If such a situation arises, one party may be required to change jobs within SAP.
- Family members and close personal contacts must not participate in business or employment decisions that may benefit or damage the other employee. This includes hiring, evaluations, promotions, compensation, work assignments, and disciplinary actions, for example.

Report to HR and the Office of Ethics & Compliance (OEC) any situations that affect you and that could be perceived as a personal conflict of interest so that appropriate steps can be taken to protect you, SAP, and the employees involved.

Disclose to HR and the OEC any situations that affect you where there is a family relation, life partnership, or close personal connection between you and a senior leader (that is, for the purposes of the Code, a T4-level people manager or above) to avoid even the appearance of preferential or disadvantageous treatment.

Personal relationships with customers, partners, suppliers, and competitors

If your family and close personal contacts work, or seek to work, for a customer, partner, supplier, or competitor of SAP, you must make certain that these relationships do not exert any undue influence. In particular, you must not share confidential information or allow them to impact your objectivity in the decision-making process.

Occasionally, it may happen that you will interact with family members or close personal contacts who work for an SAP customer, partner, or supplier. This collaboration can occur, for example, during sales negotiations, consulting projects, and procurement. This is a conflict of interest for you, your family member, and your close personal contact at the customer, partner, or supplier. Many of these third parties include a conflict-of-interest clause in their contracts, and you are obliged to notify them of any potential conflict of interest. It is therefore mandatory for you to disclose such relationships immediately to your manager and to the OEC.
You must also never use your influence to secure a job at an SAP customer, partner, or supplier for a family member or close personal contact, regardless of how the person became aware of the position. The required recruitment procedures of the SAP customer, partner, or supplier must be followed.

4.3.5 FINANCIAL INVESTMENT IN OTHER COMPANIES

You must not have any financial interest in the businesses of customers, partners, suppliers, or competitors of SAP, where this could lead to a conflict of interest with SAP or create the appearance of such a conflict. A conflict of interest relating to a financial interest is present especially if:

- Within the context of your employment at SAP, you have influence on SAP-related decisions regarding a customer, partner, supplier, or competitor that could potentially be used for personal financial gain.
- You have a capital stake in an SAP customer, partner, supplier, or competitor that gives you influence on decisions made at the customer, partner, supplier, or competitor and that you potentially could use to gain a financial advantage.

We expect that you are loyal to our company and act in the interest of SAP.

4.4 Protection of SAP Assets

We all use various tangible and intangible SAP assets to help us perform our work. These assets are vital to support SAP business both internally and externally, and as such, you need to look after them and manage them appropriately. You must commit to guard against waste, abuse, or attacks on these assets and use them only for the purpose for which they were purchased in our business environment. Once assets are obsolete or no longer required, you must return the assets to SAP.

Always keep in mind that the assets belong to SAP and were purchased for business purposes.

Before ordering goods and services, make sure you have the necessary spending authority. You must order goods or services on behalf of SAP only for business purposes and to fulfill your work requirements. SAP does not permit ordering for private use or for use by family and close personal contacts.

If in doubt, contact the Global Security, Global IT Asset Management, or Global Procurement teams.

4.5 Internal Gift Giving

Giving a gift is a nice way to express appreciation and thanks to a person or group. However, gifts between colleagues or teams are considered private matters, and in general, you should not expect to be reimbursed. Exceptions are possible only for limited defined scenarios and with the approval of your manager and the Market Unit Chief Financial Officer (CFO).

We Follow the Law and Regulations

DocuSign Envelope ID: 26B5A6CE-9CA5-4E7B-ADCF-E88EB513A166

At SAP, we all have a personal responsibility to uphold and ensure the letter and spirit of our Code in our individual roles every day. It is important that we are aware of, and never intentionally violate, relevant laws and regulations. Violating relevant laws, regulations, or this Code, or encouraging others to do so, exposes SAP to risk, including risk to our reputation, and there-fore may result in disciplinary action up to and including termination of employment.

Violations of laws or regulations may also result in legal proceedings and penalties including, in some circumstances, civil and criminal penalties that could affect us personally and professionally in addition to a risk of adverse consequences to SAP.

We all have a personal responsibility to uphold and ensure the letter and spirit of our Code.

5.1 Fraud

Our commitment to honesty and integrity demands that we prevent, counter, and investigate fraud wherever it occurs. Fraud can have a devastating effect on our company and our environment by destroying trust, resulting in significant financial loss and other long-term business repercussions. Fraud is misrepresenting or concealing the truth to cause a loss of property or money to another person or SAP. This may include, for example, theft of materials or supplies, falsifying expense claims, or improper reporting of financial transactions and resource allocation.

We expect you, as well as our partners, suppliers, and customers, to report immediately any instances of fraud, either suspected or actual, to the Office of Ethics & Compliance (OEC) or through other channels, such as Speak Out at SAP. This helps us to prevent losses and to reduce fraud in the future.

5.2 Organizational Conflicts of Interest

Organizational Conflicts of Interest ("OCI") can arise when existing SAP relationships create an actual or potential conflict of interest for SAP on a government contract. It also can arise when the nature of the work to be performed by SAP creates a situation of actual or potential conflict of interest relating to another government contract that SAP has or is pursuing.

SAP may have access to a competitor's cost or other proprietary information if that competitor is a subcontractor on a government contract, which could provide an unfair competitive advantage when competing on another government contract.

If SAP participates in a government procurement process that may give rise to an actual or potential OCI, you must consult both SAP Global Government Affairs and the Office of Ethics & Compliance (OEC) for advance review and approval of the bid. Although an OCI may exist, participation in procurement is possible if the government contracting officer agrees that sufficient actions are undertaken to avoid, neutralize, or mitigate the actual or potential OCI, and that has been properly documented. If you are concerned that a potential OCI may exist, you must report this concern to the OEC.

5.3 Bribery and Corruption

We Win the Right Way!
We have zero tolerance for all forms of bribery and corruption. We will forgo business opportunities rather than pay bribes or facilitate corruption.

This approach is fully supported by the SAP Executive Board and the senior leadership team.

5.3.1 GENERAL INFORMATION AND PROVISIONS

We observe all applicable anticorruption treaties and laws of the countries in which we do business.

Giving and receiving benefits (including money, gifts, meals, and invitations to events) can help to build good working relationships and goodwill among companies and individuals. However, they may also be perceived as an improper advantage and raise concerns regarding our integrity and independence. They can also create a conflict of interest (or the appearance of impropriety) and even violate laws.

This means that you may not offer, promise, receive, or give anything of value to improperly influence decision making or an action. This requirement applies not only to every one of us at SAP but also to individuals and companies working with or on behalf of SAP, including those with close personal connections to the recipient.

The offering and acceptance of any benefits must meet the following basic principles:

- Serve a legitimate business purpose (that is, encourage or improve a business relationship) without the intention of an unfair advantage
- Observe the applicable Value Limits for country, format, and specific target group as published on SAP One
- Ensure adherence to all applicable laws and internal policies
- Be made in a transparent manner

Bribery may take many forms under the guise of common business or social practices. If you suspect potential bribery, you must respond in an appropriate manner as set forth in this Code. If in doubt, consult the Office of Ethics & Compliance (OEC).

We work closely with our ecosystem to achieve our goal of making the world run better. However, third parties can increase our risks particularly regarding corruption and bribery. To avoid any illegal act, all business transactions through a member of our ecosystem must be in full compliance with all applicable laws, rules, regulations, and policies. We depend on reputable business partners that behave fairly, ethically, and correctly in all business activities.

5.3.2 MEALS AND INVITATIONS TO EVENTS

You may offer or accept meals and invitations to events, provided they meet the above-mentioned basic principles.

When you offer meals and invitations to third parties, you must adhere to the policies for business events and hospitality.

The event type (on-site or virtual, business, or hospitality); the invited guests (government officials, special guests, and accompanying persons); and timing (parties in a competitive bid or sales cycle) influence whether the meal or invitation is allowed.

5.3.3 GIFTS

In general, you may offer or accept gifts and gifts in kind to or from current or prospective customers, suppliers, competitors, or partners if the above-mentioned basic principles are met and exclusions below are followed.

No gifts may be offered or accepted with a value higher than that identified in the Value Limits published on SAP One.

Gifts to government officials or public sector employees are strictly prohibited, as are gifts to customers during a competitive sales cycle.

In some contexts, and in some countries in a business relationship, it is customary to exchange gifts of higher value. In these cases, you may accept these gifts in the name of SAP but immediately hand them over to the Office of Ethics & Compliance (OEC) to be used for the wider benefit of SAP employees or as a donation to a good cause. You may not personally keep these gifts.

5.3.4 FACILITATION PAYMENTS AND CASH OR CASH EQUIVALENTS

The offer or acceptance of cash or cash equivalents (for example gift cards, vouchers, checks, or gift certificates) is not permitted.

Facilitation or "grease" payments are also prohibited.

5.3.5 CORPORATE SPONSORSHIPS, MEMBERSHIPS, AND DONATIONS

SAP may occasionally engage in sponsorship activities with other organizations to support our purpose and in return for legitimate commercial benefits such as branding rights and hospitality. We also make donations to support charitable causes.

As a large and diverse global company, we are a member of many trade associations, coalitions, and professional societies that represent the interests of the technology industry and the broader business community. We also advocate on public policy issues of importance to SAP and the communities we serve.

We never engage in sponsorship activities, make donations, or use memberships for improper purposes to influence a business decision or those actions that are contrary to applicable laws, regulations, and our policies. The engagement in all three of these activities requires approval through the official process, up to and including approval by the Office of Ethics & Compliance (OEC).

To avoid even the appearance of inappropriate influence, we reject sponsorship activities with, or donation requests from customers and their families and close personal contacts during a competitive sales cycle.

5.4 Artificial Intelligence

SAP believes that artificial intelligence (AI) has the potential to unlock boundless potential for businesses, governments, and society. As with similar innovations or technological advancements, AI also has the potential to create economic, political, and social challenges, depending upon how it is used and implemented.

We are committed to comply with all legislation in this regard. We are also committed to the ethical development, deployment, and sale of SAP developed AI systems. Our Global AI Policy defines a group-wide minimum standard for the development, deployment and sale or use of SAP AI applications and solutions, including assignment of clear responsibilities within SAP.

The policy is based on the SAP Guiding Principles for Artificial Intelligence:

- We are driven by our values.
- We design for people.
- We enable business beyond bias.
- We strive for transparency and integrity in all that we do.
- We uphold quality and safety standards.
- We place data protection and privacy at our core.
- We engage with the wider societal challenges of AI.

5.5 Intellectual Property, Confidential Information, and Personal Data and Privacy Rights

SAP is a trusted leader in driving business transformation and value through technology innovation. We are all responsible for protecting the intellectual property, confidentiality, integrity, and availability of confidential, personal, and proprietary information and data, no matter if it belongs to SAP, us as employees, or others. We must ensure that personal data is processed according to data protection and privacy rules and regulations worldwide. The respective experts at Global Legal, especially the Cyber, Litigation, and IP teams; Global Security; and Global Data Protection & Privacy are at hand to guide us in this endeavor.

5.5.1 INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY

SAP intellectual property (IP) is one of our most valuable assets. This includes confidential information, patents, copyrights, trademarks, and trade secrets. Therefore, it is vital that you take appropriate steps to protect SAP IP. It is also important that you respect the IP rights of third parties, including our competitors, and avoid unauthorized use.

5.5.2 CONFIDENTIAL INFORMATION

The exchange of information is a vital part of every business. Before sharing any SAP information, you need to evaluate the appropriate classification. It is appropriate to share publicly available information about SAP. For exchange of all other information, either by SAP or a third party, we require a nondisclosure agreement (NDA) or other appropriate agreement.

You should also avoid being exposed to confidential information of third parties in the course of your business unless necessary.

5.5.3 PROTECTION OF PERSONAL DATA AND PRIVACY RIGHTS

SAP is committed to and strives to protect the rights of individuals, particularly the right to data protection and privacy, strengthening our reputation as a sustainable and trustworthy partner in the market. We have implemented safeguards to help protect the fundamental rights of everyone whose data is processed by SAP, whether they are customers, suppliers, partners, prospects, employees, or applicants. Therefore, all of us must respect applicable data protection and privacy rights when processing personal data during our daily work.

You are responsible for ensuring that all practices involving the processing of personal data within the course of your work comply with applicable laws and internal regulations. You are required to handle all personal data that could be accessed within the scope or your role with strict confidentiality, and not to use this data without authorization. Processing means any operation that is performed on personal data, whether or not by automated means. This includes collecting, recording, organizing, structuring, storing, adapting or altering, using, disclosing by transmission or dissemination, or otherwise making available, in alignment or combination, restriction, erasure, or destruction.

5.6 Insider Trading and Inside Information

In numerous jurisdictions, publicly traded financial instruments such as shares and bonds, and their derivatives, are subject to strict statutory rules. These regulations prohibit the unlawful disclosure of inside information and its use in trading.

You must ensure that when trading in publicly traded financial instruments of SAP SE or SAP-listed subsidiaries, customers, suppliers, competitors, or partners, you do not do so based on inside information, and you must not unlawfully disclose inside information.

Except in circumstances where the prohibition of insider dealing applies, you may decide at your personal discretion whether to dispose of or acquire SAP SE or an SAP subsidiary's shares or bonds or their derivatives. However, to avoid any implication that you are involved in insider trading, the SAP Executive Board urgently appeals to all of us not to trade in SAP SE or SAP subsidiary's shares or bonds or their derivatives during the official blackout periods. You are asked to comply with this (legally nonbinding) appeal. Deviations from this guideline should be made only in emergencies, for example, where an employee has a sudden unexpected cash requirement. Cases of doubt should be discussed with the SAP SE Capital Market Compliance team beforehand.

If you have questions in this regard, especially about capital market or insider law or the blackout period, contact the SAP SE Capital Market Compliance team.

5.7 Financial Statements, Disclosures, and Internal Accounting Controls

Accurate, complete, and reliable records are crucial to our business to avoid reputational and/or financial damages. We are committed to maintain accurate company records and accounts to ensure compliance with applicable legislations, tax rules, ethical business practices, and to prevent fraudulent activities. We are responsible to ensure that the information we record, process, and analyze is accurate and is recorded in accordance with applicable legal or accounting principles, applying SAP's policies and guidelines. Internal controls need to be in place.

All parties involved need to ensure that these records are made secure and readily available to those with a need to know the information on a timely basis to fulfill internal and external requirements. All company records must be complete, accurate, and reliable in all material respects. There is never a reason to make false or misleading entries. Undisclosed or unrecorded funds, payments, or receipts are inconsistent with our business practices and are prohibited.

5.8 Export Controls and Trade Sanctions

Export control laws regulate exports, re-exports, and in-country transfers of items (including software) that have both military and commercial application. These laws are intended to address national security and other concerns, for example, potential to influence the behavior of a target nation, company, or person. Deliveries of SAP software and services are within the scope of these regulations regardless of how they are delivered.

Trade sanctions impose restrictions on certain countries, regions, entities, or individuals for various economic, diplomatic, and national security reasons. The scope of trade sanctions can range from comprehensive prohibition to do business to specific economic and financial measures. Because of the risk associated with these trade sanctions and as a matter of corporate policy, SAP products and services are not available in certain countries and regions. Furthermore, SAP products and services cannot be sold to entities and individuals with whom transactions are prohibited in accordance with any applicable sanctioned party lists.

Therefore, we follow such laws and regulations, including without limitation the laws of Germany, the European Union, the United States, and applicable local regulations and obligations as stated in applicable documents, which can be found on the Export Control SharePoint.

For questions or concerns, contact the Export Control Legal team.

5.9 Anti-Money Laundering and Commitment to Combating the Financing of Terrorism

Money laundering and financing of terrorism are global issues with far-reaching and serious consequences.

Money laundering is the process of converting illegal proceeds so that funds are made to appear legitimate. Very often, this is attempted through cash transactions, as the payer is harder to identify in these cases. For this reason, SAP does not accept cash transactions of €10,000 and above. However, money laundering is not limited to cash transactions. Complex commercial transactions may hide financing for criminal activity such as terrorism, illegal narcotics trade, bribery, and fraud. Involvement in such transactions undermines our integrity, damages our reputation, and can expose SAP and all of us to severe sanctions.

SAP forbids knowing engagement in transactions that facilitate money laundering and financing of terrorism. We take affirmative steps to detect and prevent unacceptable or illegal forms of payment and financial transactions. Anti-money laundering laws of many countries and international organizations require transparency of payments and the identity of all parties to transactions. We observe all applicable anti-money laundering and combating terrorist financing laws of the countries in which we do business. We will conduct business only with reputable customers and business partners involved in legitimate business activities and transactions.

6.1 Business Relationships with Organizations

We do not maintain business relationships with organizations that are themselves, or are supporters of, antisocial forces, terrorists, or criminal groups.

6.2 Contractual Changes and Unauthorized Commitments

Transparency in business relationships is crucial to the success of SAP. Our business partners and investors expect us to operate in a fair and transparent manner. To further our goal of transparency, we must make sure that commitments to our business partners are accurate, truthful, appropriately approved in advance, and ultimately incorporated into written agreements that cover the full understanding of all involved parties. All parties should be aware of the entire understanding of our agreements.

You must not agree to any changes, qualifications, or amendments to SAP contracts or general terms and conditions, whether by supplementary agreement, side letter, or otherwise, without proper approval. Also, any other unauthorized commitments are strictly prohibited.

Any of these actions made without proper oversight or internal controls could lead to accounting and financial errors and irregularities and could expose SAP to potentially fraudulent activities.

6.3 Reciprocity Deals

We must ensure that we do not enter reciprocity deals in which SAP accepts goods and services from another company only on the condition that the other company obtains SAP products or services in exchange.

6.4 Conduct with Customers

6.4.1 BOYCOTTS

An agreement with a customer, supplier, competitor, or partner of SAP not to conduct business with, or to not deliver goods or provide services to any other customer, supplier, competitor, partner, or service provider, is unlawful. Therefore, you must be extremely careful if you discuss with one of our suppliers the competitive terms of another supplier. Discussions of this sort raise suspicion of an unlawful understanding. A unilateral decision not to sell to a particular customer can become a problem if SAP has such a strong position in the market concerned that the customer is dependent on its contractual relationship with us.

6.4.2 EXCLUSIVE CONTRACTS

You must not ask customers to buy products and services exclusively from us as SAP or to refrain from buying the products of a competitor if this would impact competition in the market.

6.5 Conduct with Suppliers

6.5.1 GENERAL

Guided by the Global Procurement organization, we must govern our conduct with suppliers by sound judgment and absolute integrity. The most important consideration is the upholding of SAP's interests.

We must ensure that SAP's suppliers comply with the legal requirements in the country of manufacture and country of sale.

Accordingly, you must not coerce any supplier to buy SAP products in return for SAP's purchase of that supplier's goods or services. Naturally, however, you may seek to sell products to our suppliers as you do to any other customer.

Relationships with our suppliers often include access to trade secrets and suppliers' know-how. In that regard, you must exercise the utmost care and ensure compliance with the Code. Do not pass on information concerning a supplier's problems or shortcomings to any other supplier or partner or any other person outside of SAP.

6.5.2 BIDS, ESTIMATES, AND PROOF OF SERVICES AND GOODS

We must ensure that all qualified suppliers are fully and equally notified of SAP's technical and commercial bid requirements. The same applies to any details, changes, and additions to these requirements subsequently provided.

SAP considers the awarding of any contract based on the long-term cost to SAP, including the costs associated with defective goods and services, as well as the value of the long-term business relationship with SAP suppliers.

Before approving invoices for goods or services, ensure that you have verified that those goods or services have been provided.

6.5.3 EXTERNAL CONSULTANTS

When engaging external consultants, you must ensure that:

- Commission and consulting contracts are always concluded in writing
- Payments are made only for activities that are usually remunerated and are lawful

6.6 Conduct with Competitors

6.6.1 GENERAL

One of the most serious infringements of the provisions of competition law is the existence of an understanding between competitors. Agreements and understandings amongst competitors about pricing, conditions of sale, volume of production, or the sharing of markets are strictly unlawful. You must not participate in agreements or understandings of this nature. The Field Legal team can provide detailed guidance in your day-to-day business.

6.6.2 PRICE FIXING AMONG COMPETITORS

All forms of price fixing among competitors are forbidden. This ban also includes all agreements and understandings that only indirectly affect prices or other conditions of sale, such as discounts. You must not participate in setting maximum and minimum prices or exchanging information about future pricing models with competitors. In individual cases, it may be necessary – as part of a reseller agreement – to provide information to the resale partner, who may also be a competitor, about the future pricing model so that internal licensing payments can be adjusted. You must not convey such information without first checking with the Global Legal team on the implications under competition law.

6.6.3 COMPETITIVE RESTRICTIONS

Joint ventures, collaboration agreements, and mergers among competitors can affect free competition. In many cases, they require official approval. Often their legality also must be checked in multiple systems of law because they can have consequences in other countries. Therefore, you must ensure that the Global Legal team checks the legality of such plans as early as possible and, in any case, before they are implemented.

Contact with competitors

You must not discuss internal matters with competitors. This includes matters such as pricing and conditions of sale, costs, overviews of the market, organizational processes, or other confidential information, from which competitors could draw competitive advantage over SAP.

Obtaining competitor information
We at SAP have a legitimate interest in obtaining information about competitors and evaluating all published information about its competing companies (for example, publications about products and pricing). However, you must not seek to obtain trade secrets or other confidential or secret information about a competitor using dishonest means.

You must not accept, read, or use information about products and plans of competitors that is identified or identifiable as confidential information unless you are authorized by the competitor to do so.

SAP receives a net benefit from competitive information only when it is obtained lawfully and ethically. Therefore, we seek to avoid exposure to competitive information that is confidential, is otherwise restricted, or has no legitimate source. Actual or alleged infringement or misappropriation of competitors' confidential information or intellectual property rights may lead to litigation, which, in turn, can result in monetary loss and the inability to provide certain products or services to our customers. In addition, actual or alleged infringement or misappropriation may also damage SAP's reputation as a trustworthy business partner.

Accordingly, you may gather and use nonconfidential information about competitors, including information that can be found on competitors' Web sites.

You always must keep in mind that we are legally prohibited from:
- Collecting confidential competitive information
- Making untrue statements about competitors
- Gathering competitive information in breach of a contract
- Misrepresenting the relationship to SAP to obtain competitive information
- Violating the copyrights of a competitor
- Hiring third parties to engage in such practices

6.7 Conduct with Partners

Partners are very important to our company. Our partners serve as our ambassadors and support our varied business interests. That is why we must trust our partners, be loyal, and treat every partner with equality and equity. Presenting a consistent and aligned message is in the best interest of SAP and our partners.

You must present our partners with equal opportunities, always be objective, and provide transparency. Ensure that you treat them without bias or unjust preference. For example, you must be equitable when handling competing bids from several partners for the same customer. For you to ensure the best experience for our customers, every opportunity requires trustworthy collaboration with our partners, thereby creating a productive environment to deliver a successful multichannel go-to-market approach.

If a partner is also a customer, supplier, or competitor of SAP, you must also observe this Code's rules concerning customers, suppliers, and competitors. For any questions related to conduct with partners, contact the Partner Ecosystem Success organization.

Social media enables us to learn from and share information with our stakeholders, as well as communicate with the public about our company.

Keep in mind that these transmissions are permanent and easily transferable and can affect our company's reputation and relationships with colleagues, customers, partners, and others.

7.2 Human Rights

We respect, support, and promote human rights throughout our own business activities as well as along our value chain. Human rights refer to basic rights and freedoms that belong to every person. These are recognized in the International Bill of Human Rights and the International Labor Organization Declaration on Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work, such as the prohibition of forced labor, modern slavery, and human trafficking.

We take guidance from the United Nations' Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights to integrate human rights considerations into our standard business practices. We maintain a range of policies and procedures designed to ensure that we treat everyone with respect and to include actions to mitigate the risk of forced labor, modern slavery, human trafficking, or other salient human rights risks occurring in our own business or along the value chain.

You are required to comply with all applicable laws, regulations, company policies, and fundamental principles relating to human rights. We also expect our business partners to share our commitment to the advancement of human rights and to avoid complicity in human rights abuses.

We encourage you to raise any questions or concerns relating to human rights and ask you to report potential breaches through the various reporting channels available.

7.5 Political Activities

Society is partly determined and shaped by politics and the political activity of its citizens.

7.5.1 PERSONAL POLITICAL ACTIVITY, CONTRIBUTIONS, AND COMMUNICATION

SAP is proud that we are socially engaged and that we participate in the political process.

Your political engagement should take place outside of your working hours. Although individuals may make political contributions, these are not reimbursed by SAP. SAP does not make direct contributions for political purposes to political parties, politicians, or political organizations other than through event sponsorships and related marketing as allowed by law and specifically approved by SAP Global Government Affairs and the Office of Ethics & Compliance (OEC).

If you are engaged in political activities, make sure that this reflects your own personal view and do not give the impression that any of these activities are connected to SAP.

7.5.2 LOBBYING

Policymaking and legislation have a significant impact on our business. We are committed to engaging appropriately in the public policy process as an important means of enhancing shareholder value, a fundamental principle for free and democratic societies.

SAP engages with governments around the world on public policy issues that are core to our business. Lobbying is an appropriate way for us to educate policymakers about the legitimate interests of SAP and to participate in political decision-making processes. We believe that by sharing our expertise and communicating our position on certain topics, we contribute responsibly to policymaking, but these communications must be conducted and reported in compliance with all applicable laws.

It is our policy to comply with the lobbying laws and restrictions of every jurisdiction where we conduct business, and to be as transparent as possible in lobbying activities and the engagement of lobbyists. As the regulation of lobbying activity varies widely across jurisdictions, a detailed knowledge of the legal requirements is needed. Lobbying activities are therefore solely managed by SAP Global Government Affairs.

7.5.3 MEMBERSHIPS IN PROFESSIONAL OR POLITICAL ORGANIZATIONS

In principle, we believe that memberships in professional organizations are worth supporting, as amongst other things, they provide us with the ability to take part in shaping and developing standards and best practices of the profession. However, we as SAP act very cautiously in our political activities. If SAP pays for your membership in a group that has political affiliation or appears to be associated with it, you must align with SAP Global Government Affairs before becoming a member. Of course, you may become a private member in such organization at any time. However, SAP does not reimburse any costs or expenses

For information on corporate memberships, see the "Corporate Sponsorships, Memberships, and Donations" section of this Code.

3 PROFESSIONAL SECRETS

3.1 I acknowledge that during my activities for SAP I may obtain access to or knowledge about information of customers whose profession, due to relevant national laws, imposes a professional secrecy obligation upon them, and who are therefore subject to exceptional confidentiality. These may include physicians, lawyers, statutory auditors, tax advisors as well as hospitals, private health-, accident- or life-insurances or pharmacies.

3.2 When engaging service providers that will contribute in their professional services, such customers with a professional secrecy obligation must obey additional binding legal requirements aside from regular data protection obligations, which may derive from national professional- or penal law. One of these requirements is that service providers and their staff must be sworn to secrecy in a particular manner.

3.3 I acknowledge that, for legal reasons, I may be regarded as a person that contributes to the professional services of someone who bears a professional secrecy obligation, if and to the extent I will be granted with access to customer data which fall within the scope of such national professional- or penal laws ("Professional Secrets"). I have been informed and I am aware that

- relevant national law may make it an offense for a person to unlawfully disclose another's Professional Secrets that he or she was entrusted with in the course of their employment activity (e.g. in Germany sec. 203 para 4 sent. 1 German Penal Code or in France Article 226-13 French Code Penal),
- I may claim a right to refuse to give evidence towards state or government institutions with regard to Professional Secrets and that I am obliged to exercise this right (e.g. towards government institutions in Germany according to sec. 53a of the German code of the criminal procedure).

3.4 I therefore undertake to obtain knowledge of Professional Secrets, to which I may be granted with access during my activity, only as much as is necessary to fulfill my contractual obligations under my employment. I undertake to treat these data strictly confidential and to protect them against disclosure by third parties.

4 TELECOMMUNICATIONS SECRECY

4.1 I acknowledge that during my activities for SAP I may obtain access to or knowledge about information which may fall within the scope of telecommunications secrecy due to relevant national telecommunications law, and who are therefore subject to exceptional confidentiality.

4.2 Telecommunications law may be applicable if SAP commercially provides telecommunications services, and when I may contribute in such telecommunication services and be granted with access to data which fall within the scope of telecommunications services in the course of my employment with SAP.

4.3 The telecommunications secrecy comprises the content of telecommunications and the detailed circumstances thereof, particularly the fact of whether a person is or has been involved in telecommunications traffic. The telecommunications secrecy also covers the detailed circumstances surrounding unsuccessful call attempts (together "Telecommunications Secrets").

4.4 I have been informed and I am aware that relevant national law may make it an offense for a person to unlawfully disclose Telecommunications Secrets that he or she was entrusted with in the course of their employment activity (e.g. in Germany sec. 88 Telecommunications Act or sec. 206 Penal Code, in Austria sec. 119 Penal Code and sec. 4 Telecommunications Act, in Switzerland Art 43 Telecommunications Act).

4.5 I therefore undertake to obtain knowledge of Telecommunications Secrets, to which I may be granted with access during my activity, only as much as is necessary to fulfill my contractual obligations under my employment. I undertake to treat these data strictly confidential and to protect them against disclosure by third parties.

5 GENERAL PROVISIONS

5.1 My obligation to confidentiality, data protection and regarding the use of Confidential Information shall remain in force after termination or expiration of my employment and/or my access to Confidential Information.

5.2 This Statement expresses the complete understanding of the parties with respect to safeguarding confidentiality and data protection and supersedes all prior general, that means not project- related, proposals, agreements, statements, representations and understandings. Amendments to this Statement must be in writing in order to be effective.

5.3 The failure to exercise any right provided in this Statement shall not be a waiver of prior or subsequent rights.

5.4 I am aware that any misappropriation of any of the Confidential Information in violation of this Statement or applicable law may cause reputational damages or legal consequences for my employer and/or SAP. I acknowledge that any violation of this Statement may result in disciplinary action up to and including dismissal from employment as well as personal liability. Furthermore, it may lead to an administrative fine or, in case of a violation of applicable data protection-, unfair competition- or penal laws to criminal penalties or imprisonment. The breach of a Professional Secret may result in criminal penalties or, depending on the circumstances of the breach, imprisonment (e.g. in Germany up to a year, and if the breach occurred for money or with the intent to enrich or harm someone, up to 2 years or punitive fine).

5.5 If any term or provision hereof is or may become invalid or unenforceable, the remaining terms and provisions hereof shall be unimpaired and shall remain in full force and effect. The invalid or unenforceable term or provision shall be replaced by a term and provision that is valid and enforceable and that comes closest to expressing the intention of such invalid or unenforceable term or provision. If the Statement proved to be incomplete, a provision shall apply which matches the sense and purpose of the Statement and, in case of its consideration, would have been agreed.
