Dayananda Sagar University (DSU) created by an Act of Karnataka State in 2014, has been meeting the needs of quality higher education in India. The school of engineering under DSU provides science and technology based education which is required to develop high quality engineers suitable for industry and scientific organizations. DSU offers courses in Engineering, Computer applications, Science, Arts and Management at Bachelors, Masters and PhD levels. Focusing on the future trends where India is deemed to be research and development hub of the world, University has already established Innovation laboratories in collaboration with world renowned Multi-National Companies like Autodesk-Virtual Design, Bosch Rexroth-Automation Technologies, Automotive System Lab by ETAS (BOSCH), IBM-Software Technologies, NVIDIA-Boston Innovation Lab, VMWare IT Desk, besides a world class incubation center called DERBI and a Centre of Excellence by Dassault Systems-Aerospace Engineering Lab.

Planet Aerospace is an association of experts in the field of Space Science and Technology, who are on a mission to prepare next generation of Space Scientists and Engineers to take up the challenge of developing new and innovative technologies in the Aerospace arena.

Background: Satellite is an artificial object placed in an orbit and is mainly used for communication and remote sensing. The satellite industry is undergoing a transition towards designing tiny satellite because of its faster development and cheaper cost. It is significant to design more number of small satellites compared to few number of large satellites for special purpose such as gathering of scientific data and earth observation. Small satellites usually require innovative propulsion mechanism, attitude control, communication and also the computation systems. The satellite's functional versatility is embedded within its technical components and its operational characteristics. We are conducting this workshop to introduce the advanced Nano satellite technology for students, academicians, researchers, designers, developers, entrepreneurs and industrialists to fulfill the current needs of modern society.

Report on International Skill Enhancement Programme- 2020 Webinar Series on Programming and Simulation Software

ISEP-2020 PASS

25 July 2020

Preamble:

During this unprecedented time of temporary and sustained education institutes closings, educators across the globe are quickly transitioning to remote learning. In this regard, the Department of Electronics and Communication Engineering, School of Engineering, Dayananda Sagar University, Bengaluru glad to inform you that, ECE-SOE-DSU has thought of organizing an International Skill Enhancement Programme-2020 on Programming and Simulation Software (ISEP-2020 PASS) from 22nd-27th June 2020 with three sessions everyday. The ISEP-2020 PASS a FREE webinar series introduces the participants from various disciplines of engineering and management to different Programming and Simulation Software, to explore the research and academic activities. This webinar series is designed by educators and industry experts, for educators, and based on educator input capturing current challenges.

The programme was specifically designed for those who are new or have diminutive acquaintance to programming and handling of simulation software.

The webinar series explained and demonstrated programming and simulation skills, increased the confidence in research and help learners to comprehend the courses.

This ISEP-2020 PASS provided the participants a platform to involve in learning, interact with technology and experience hands-on sessions.

At the outset, I wish to thank the Vice Chancellor Dr. K. N. Balsubramanya Murthy, Registrar Dr. Puttamadappa C., Dean Dr. A. Srinivas and Department Chairman Dr. Vaibhav A. Meshram, for permitting me to host the webinar series in association with IEEE Bangalore Section for all the support extended to me in organizing this one week mega event with total of 18 sessions, and 18 resources persons and 18 different simulation tools to learn, explore and take it forward in research or academics. Special thanks to Dr. Pushpa Mala S., IEEE MDC Member to get us permission to use IEEE Bangalore Section logo.

We had an overwhelmingly response with total of 640+ registrations from various streams of engineering and around 80+ participants participating in each session with the choice of their field and discipline.

Preamble:

Applications of photonics are found in almost every aspect of our life ranging from daily life to highly innovative science. Photonics is essentially the science that involves generation of a photon (light), its detection, as well as manipulation via transmission, emission, signal processing, modulation, switching, amplification, and sensing. Most importantly, photonics involves the proper use of light as a tool for the benefit of humans. Applications of photonics are ubiquitous. Included are all areas from simple obstacle detection to the most advanced science. The development of photonics is multidirectional. There is a huge scope for research on photonics.

This FDP aims at providing an insight on "Recent trends in photonics". Mainly to motivate research scholars and faculty to dig in and do research in the field of photonics and quantum electronics.

Objectives:

- To introduce photonics and enlighten the faculty with its applications.
- To provide comprehensive idea about recent trends in photonics and adapt in their academic curriculum as case studies.
- To encourage research in the field of optics and quantum electronics.

Dayananda Sagar University:

Dayananda Sagar University (DSU) was established under the Karnataka State Act in 2014. DSU aims to provide the high-quality education and strives to build well trained professionals in the country and offers the best education in the fields of Engineering and Health Sciences. The school of engineering under DSU provides science and technology based education which is required to develop high quality engineers suitable for industry and scientific organizations. Focusing on the future trends where India is deemed to be research and development hub of the world, University has already established Innovation laboratories in collaboration with world renowned Multi-National Companies.

Department of ECE:

The Department of Electronics and Communication Engineering was established in the year 2015, to deliver programs that comply with the contemporary technologies. The department is currently offering B.Tech Program, industry driven M.Tech program in Embedded Systems and also has a well-equipped research centre that offers PhD Programs. Recently B.Voc Programme along with NTTF has been started. The curriculum in Electronics and Communication Engineering enfolds the fundamental aspects of the field and stresses on experiential learning, laboratory work, projects, and ethical practices.

Brochure of Five Days FDP on “Current Trends in Machine Learning with Python-A Hands-on Approach” [2019-2020]

ABOUT THE FDP

Machine Learning is the science of getting computers to act without being explicitly programmed, hence widely regarded and almost inevitable for anyone who hopes to create intelligent machines. It is a form of AI that enables a system to learn from data. Simply put, AI's goal is to make computers or computer programs smart enough to imitate the human mind behavior. One area that extensively utilizes the concept of machine learning is Natural Language Processing with the ability of a computer to understand, analyze, manipulate and potentially generate human language. This programme aims to give the participants a comprehensive understanding of the concepts of Machine Learning, AI, NLP, Data Science and Computer Vision through interactive sessions and also giving them hands-on experience on the application of ML using Python so as to promote the use of these techniques in interdisciplinary field of research.

The session concluded on Friday, the 7th of May with Dean, Prof. Nagaraj delivering vote of thanks to all the participants. Sir remarked and requested all the participants to keep up the association in the days to come.

Feedback by the participants:

1. As the objective of every training or FDP is the transfer of knowledge in real sense and Dr Radha has done this very effectively. She is an excellent trainer and resource person- Prof. Ritu Sharma
2. good morning it was a wonderful session in FDP, making it ,one of the best i attended thanks to Radha madam and the organisers. hope to see more exciting things ahead. - Prof. Ravichandran

3. Knowledge everyone will have but few will share , then only it will enhance. May god bless mam to disseminate her knowledge to others. Its true these days everyone want to be author in our articles but no one will teach the art of writing. But real hard workers they know the struggle. So they will share for common benefit, Hope at least in this pandemic people will learn live and let live, the more you share the more you gain. those are real learners, We are faculty unless we learn correctly we cannot guide next generation in a right way. Hope participants will agree with me. Radhika Madam 🙏-Dr. Sowdhamini
4. Mam, very rarely do resource person take the kind of effort you took in explaining the simplest to complex queries, without loosing patience, you navigated through the session. Best was the ease with you could provide research papers for reference. It shows the depth of your knowledge and your keenness to help the learner. You are truly a great teacher. Thank you-Prof. Lakshmi
5. This has turned out into one of the best FDPs attended by me. I am truly grateful to Radha madam for her efforts. -Dr Arnab Ganguli (B B college, Asansol)

We place on record our sincere gratitude to all those who helped us directly and indirectly in organising this FDP.

ISEP-2020 PASS

25 July 2020

Preamble:

During this unprecedented time of temporary and sustained education institutes closings, educators across the globe are quickly transitioning to remote learning. In this regard, the Department of Electronics and Communication Engineering, School of Engineering, Dayananda Sagar University, Bengaluru glad to inform you that, ECE-SOE-DSU has thought of organizing an International Skill Enhancement Programme-2020 on Programming and Simulation Software (ISEP-2020 PASS) from 22nd-27th June 2020 with three sessions everyday. The ISEP-2020 PASS a FREE webinar series introduces the participants from various disciplines of engineering and management to different Programming and Simulation Software, to explore the research and academic activities. This webinar series is designed by educators and industry experts, for educators, and based on educator input capturing current challenges.

The programme was specifically designed for those who are new or have diminutive acquaintance to programming and handling of simulation software.

The webinar series explained and demonstrated programming and simulation skills, increased the confidence in research and help learners to comprehend the courses.

This ISEP-2020 PASS provided the participants a platform to involve in learning, interact with technology and experience hands-on sessions..

At the outset, I wish to thank the Vice Chancellor Dr. K. N. Balsubramanya Murthy, Registrar Dr. Puttamadappa C., Dean Dr. A. Srinivas and Department Chairman Dr. Vaibhav A. Meshram, for permitting me to host the webinar series in association with IEEE Bangalore Section for all the support extended to me in organizing this one week mega event with total of 18 sessions, and 18 resources persons and 18 different simulation tools to learn, explore and take it forward in research or academics. Special thanks to Dr. Pushpa Mala S., IEEE MDC Member to get us permission to use IEEE Bangalore Section logo.

We had an overwhelmingly response with total of 640+ registrations from various streams of engineering and around 80+ participants participating in each session with the choice of their field and discipline.

Tetrahedral and Hexahedral mesh generation

- Tetra mesh
- Map
- Extrude
- Solid build options
- Mesh quality corrections

Training Handouts

□ Tetra Mesh - Generate 2D tria mesh using the Batch Mesh Manager

Open file

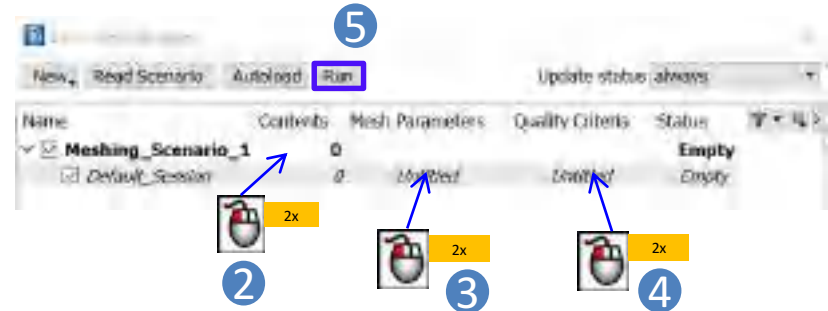

\\DEMO\MESHING_TRAINING\20210211_ANSA_basics\ANSA_Basics_Training\ansa_training_files\VOLUME\mesh_solid_initial.ansa

Invoke Batch Mesh manager from Tools > Batch Mesh (or) from the Tools toolbar (or) with CTRL+B

- 1) Create a New Meshing Scenario
- 2) Assign Contents for meshing to the scenario
- 3) Load the Mesh Parameters file 3mm.ansa_mpar
- 4) Load the Quality Criteria file 3mm_criteria.ansa_qual
- 5) Run the meshing scenario
- 6) Improve mesh flow and quality criteria

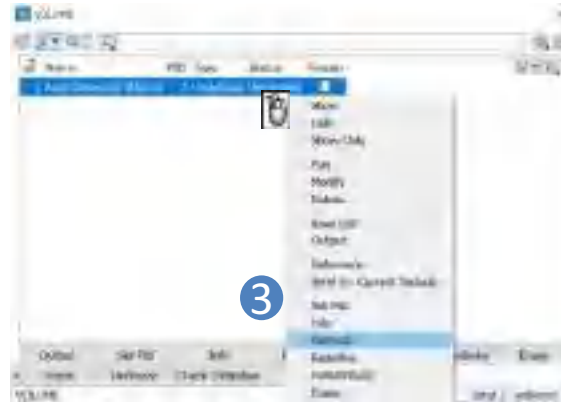

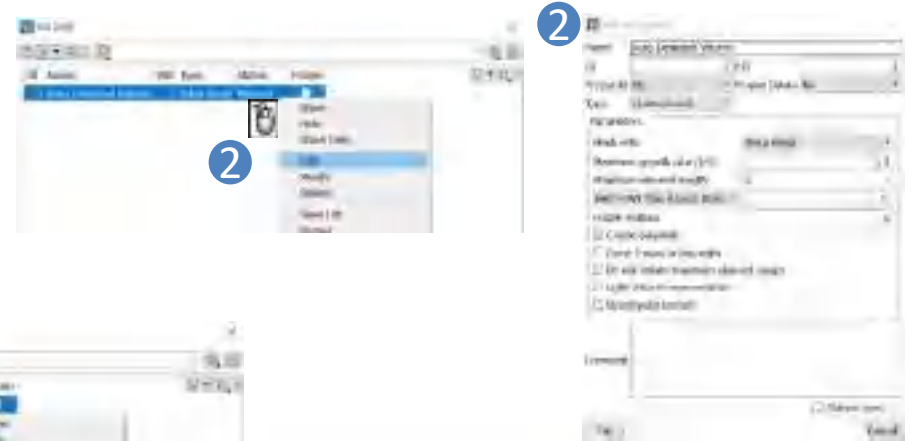

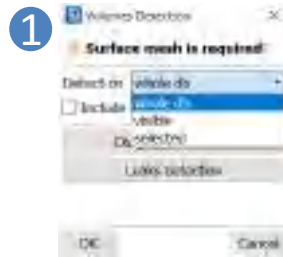

Feature Manager can be used Mesh Treatments for better capture of features and quality

□ Tetra Mesh – Generate volume mesh

Invoke VOLUME
MESH>VOLUMES>DEFINE

- 1) Select whole db in the Detect on option
- 2) Right-click on Auto Detected Volume from the VOLUME list window and click Edit and makes the selections as depicted in the image
- 3) Right-click on Auto Detected Volume from the VOLUME list window and click Edit

As a general rule, the user can obtain very quickly an initial volume mesh by using the parameters:

Max. Growth rate = 1.2

Max. Length = 0

Tetra Quality Criterion: 4. according to Nastran aspect ratio

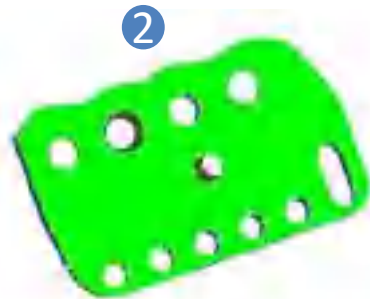

□ Map Mesh

Open file

\\DEMO\MESHING_TRAINING\20210211_ANSA_basics\ANSA_Basics_Training\ansa_training_files\VOLUME\MAP_multi.ansa

Invoke VOLUME>STRUCTURED MESH>MAP

- 1) First, select all the Source areas of the model at the different steps.
- 2) Then, select all the opposite Target areas that have not to be meshed necessarily.
- 3) The Side area will be selected automatically, or select with box selection all the remaining nonselected faces

If more than one master area is recognized, we should select the face from which mapping will start.

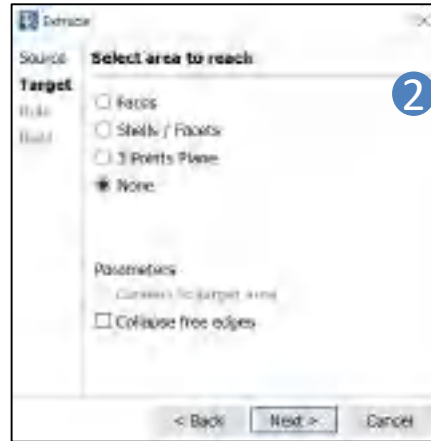

❑ Extrude Mesh - Revolute

Open file
\\DEMO\MESHING_TRAINING\20210211_ANSA_basics\ANSA_Basics_Training\ansa_training_files\VOLUME\01_extrude.ans

- 1) Invoke Topo>Plane Cut>Single. In Options list check Planar Faces in Create Auxiliaries drop down
- 2) Mesh only the highlighted face
- 3) Improve the mesh quality

❑ Extrude Mesh – Revolute - Ctd..

Invoke VOLUME MESH>STRUCTURED MESH>Extrude

- 1) In Source tab select Faces
- 2) In Target tab select None
- 3) In Rule tab select Revolute enter the values as depicted (user may also pick two 3D points from the graphics area)
- 4) In Build tab specify the Steps and enter 360 in Angle field

Output

❑ Solid build options – Ojunction

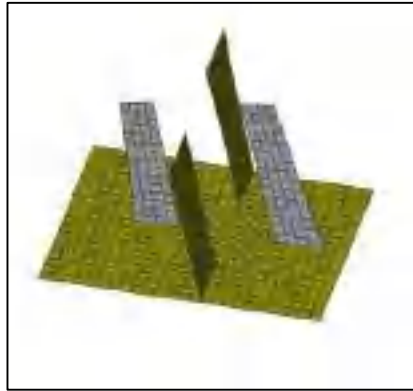

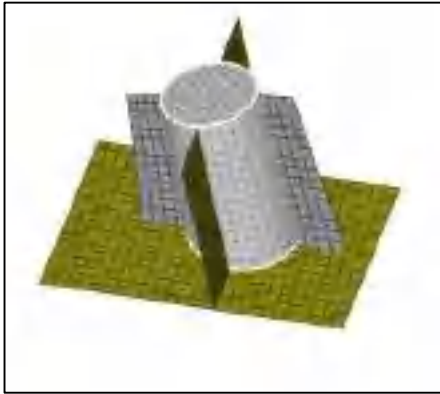

- 1) Open file
\\DEMO\MESHING_TRAINING\20210211_ANSA_basics\ANSA_Basics_Training\ansa_training_files\VOLUME\01_solid_build.ansa
- 2) Roughly Mesh the part using Topo>Mid Surface>Casting
- 3) Invoke Volume>Structured Mesh>Ojunction>Auto
- 4) Select Hexa Solids in Create drop down and click Finish

Explore other options available in the Create drop down

❑ Solid build options – Solid Builder

- 1) Delete the created Solid
- 2) Invoke Volume>Structured Mesh>Solid Builder
- 3) In options list Select Auto Create for Part and Property drop downs. Also check Auto-Build option

□ Mesh quality corrections - Quality check - Hidden view mode

Activate Hidden from the Drawing Styles toolbar, in order to view elements according to the criterion they violate.

A color legend with the visible criteria is displayed. The number of violating solid elements is shown in the Volume elements index (OFF).

1. A criterion can be activated/deactivated by clicking on its name in the color legend. Right-clicking on the color legend, a context menu appears. From this menu, the threshold value of a criterion can be changed and solid elements that violate a specific criterion can be isolated (Show/Hide/Show Only). Also, the element of worst quality can be isolated via Show Only Worst. Choose the option Hide Inactive Criteria, to make the color legend shorter.
2. The legend and the elements index can be moved in a different location of the screen, by drag and dropping them with the middle mouse button.
3. Apply right-mouse button and Show Only, to leave visible only all violating solid elements. To locate more easily the element of worst quality, use Show Only Worst from the same context menu

Use the tetra meshed mesh_solid_initial.ansa for practice

Mesh Module

□ Meshing - Sheet metal parts

Mesh function is used to mesh all type of macro areas (Faces and FE shells). After setting parameter and quality criteria, the user picks the desired option to generate the mesh.

Macro Perimeters:

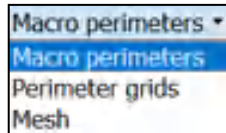

1. Perimeters are joined or released
2. Perimeters Grids distribution is changed
3. All Feature treatments are applied

Perimeter Grids:

1. Perimeters Grids distribution is changed
1. Feature treatments that do not alter the geometry are respected

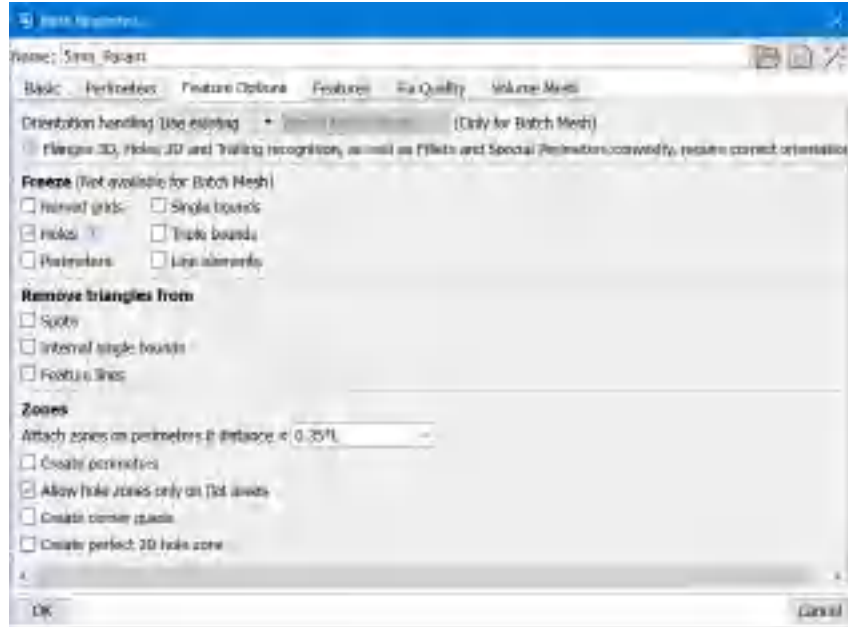

Mesh:

1. Perimeters and their Grids remain intact. Only mesh is generated
2. Feature treatments are not respected

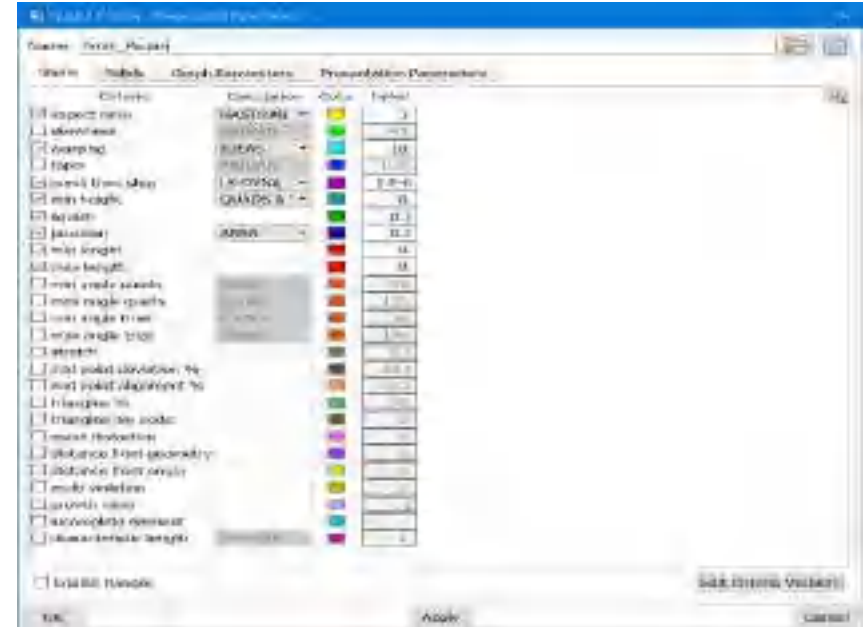

Note! ALL actions respect the global Mesh Parameters and Quality Criteria!

Areas

□ Meshing – Brush

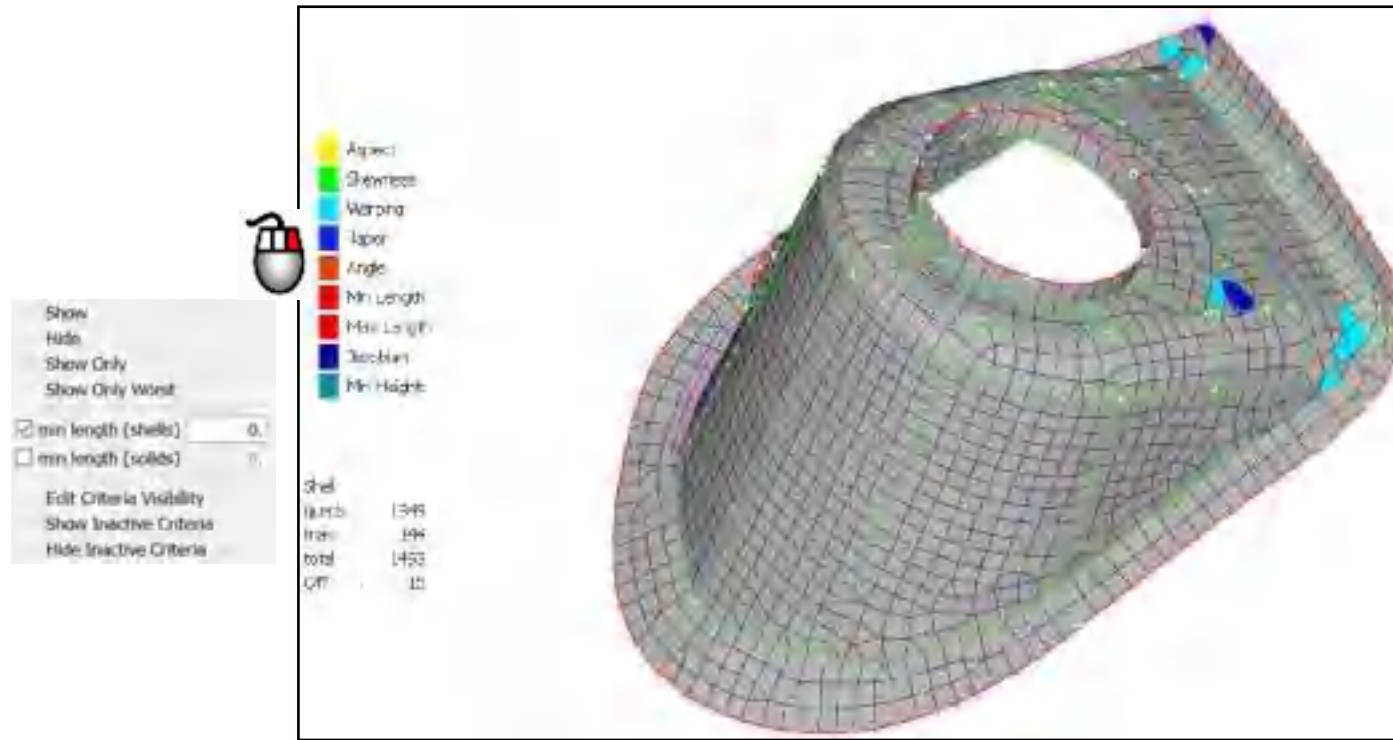

The mesh improvement functions on RMB have a new Brush way of picking elements (Shortcut: B). The user drags the Brush upon an area and the underlying mesh is improved.

While Brush is enabled, the user can switch function (Reconstruct, Smooth, Fix Quality, Origin) with the TAB button.

The user can change the Brush diameter from the Options List or increase it (Shortcut: 2) and decrease it (Shortcut: 1) through keyboard shortcuts.

Mid-Mesh

What can we do with Casting tool?

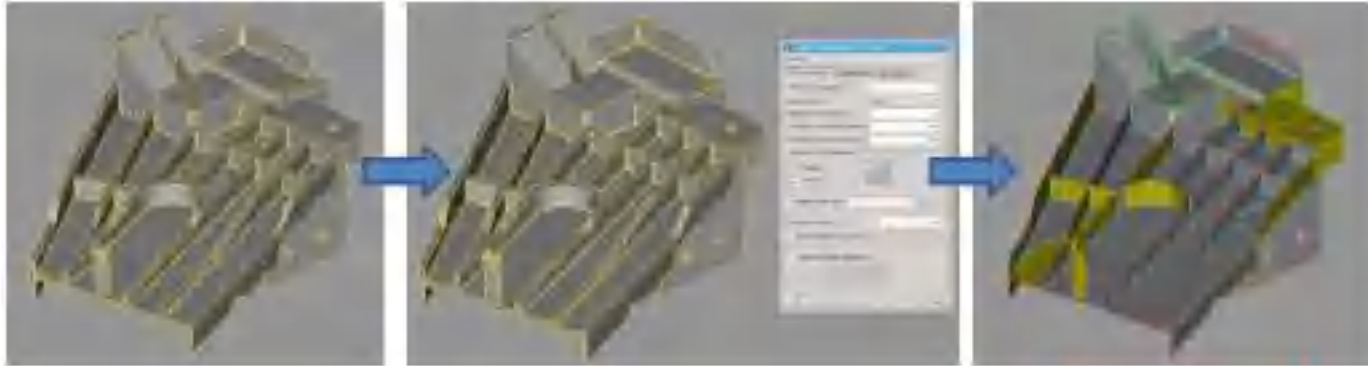

Generate FE surface mesh, with specified target element length, in the middle position even in the most complicated models.

What are the advantages of the new Coating tool?

- Automatic generation of FE surface mesh of high quality.
- Automatic perimeters creation that allows EE to be treated and improved like Geometry.
- Direct association of the created FE mesh to the initial geometry via the Align Constraints.
- Easy align process.
- Real time calculation of middle position and nodal thickness in every mesh action.

❑ Casting – Align Manager

Run Casting Algorithm

Activate Middle Mesh> Middle Mesh>Generate function. On the Automatic Middle-Mesh Generator window use the option Casting.
Input the values for Minimum thickness, Target element length, Collapse perimeters distance and Collapse junctions distance.

More advanced parameters can be set up for an optimal result.

After few seconds the casting algorithm is finished.

❑ Casting – Align Manager

Casting Options

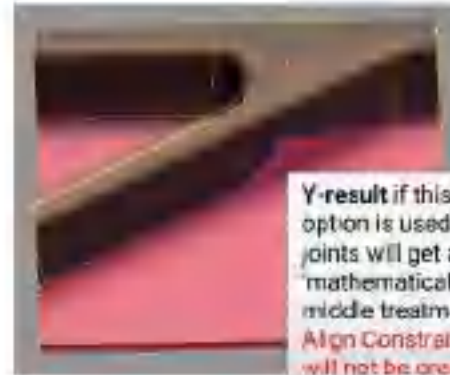

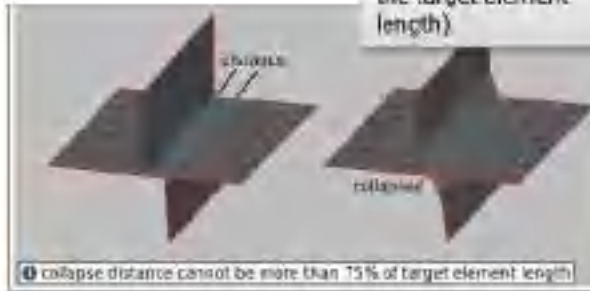

Minimum thickness is the minimum thickness that exists in the model.

Collapse perimeters distance is the distance under which perimeters will collapse (it can be given as a percentage of the target element length).

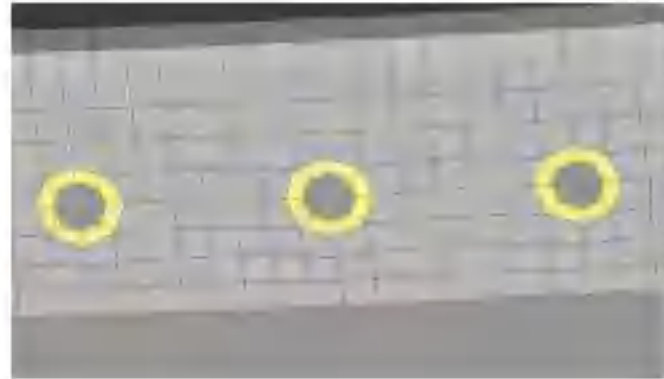

Collapse junctions distance is the distance under which T-junctions will collapse (it can be given as a percentage of the target element length).

Y-result if this option is used, Y-joints will get a 'mathematical' middle treatment. Align Constraints will not be created!

❑ Casting – Align Manager

Casting Options

On Features tab the user can specify Mesh Treatments for holes.
This window has direct communication with global Mesh Parameters, so the user needs to set them only once.

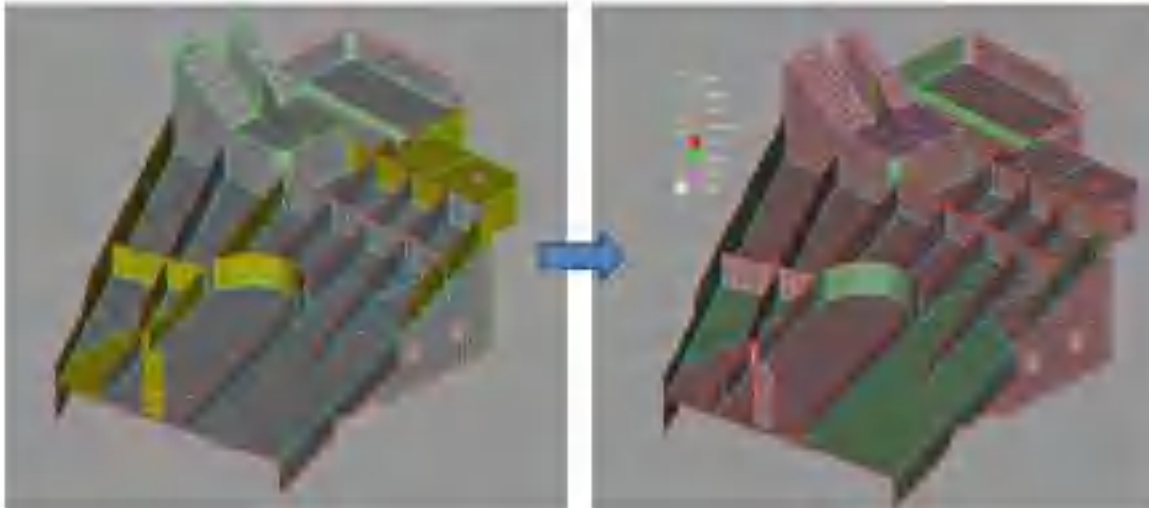

□ Casting – Align Manager

Constraints List

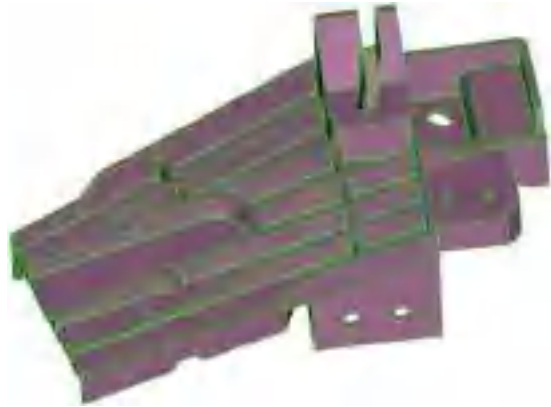

- The generated FE mesh is associated with the geometry. Associated shells are called Align Constraints.
- Handling of the associated shells (Align Constraints) is done via Constraints List.
- To invoke the Constraints List go to Middle Mesh>Middle Mesh>Constraints.
- Automatically the Draw Mode changes to ALIGN and Align Constraints are colored according to their type.

About the FDP

Blockchain Technology is an emerging technology suitable for decentralised and transactional sharing of data across large network of interested participants. It is an innovative distributed ledger technology where verification data for the transactional process is cryptographically secured, tamper-proof and distributed across the network. The blocks are linked with each other, leading to a continuous chain and distributed across every node in the network. This technology provides a unique solution to the problem of trust in the digital world leading towards decentralised trust. This technology is successfully used in various sectors such as Government, Healthcare, Cybersecurity, automobiles, media, travel, hospitality, energy, smart cities, time stamping, logging or timestamping in a system, recording transactions, etc. The FDP is intended to provide opportunities for educational institutions, faculties and students to upgrade their knowledge in the area of Blockchain Technology. Considering the growing importance of Blockchain Technologies and its potential applications, this three-days' workshop is planned and sessions would be delivered by experts from academia and industry.

FDP Objectives

- To disseminate the knowledge of blockchain technology among faculty researchers and academicians.
- To discuss the current state of the blockchain technology and research which in India and across the world.

He also discussed on Difference between blockchain and database. He highlighted collecting and processing Big Data stored on the Blockchain of an organization can also determine the data's origin and verify the data is from a trusted source. It provides a seamless way to conduct integrity checks and audit trails since it determines the data through linked chains. He also stressed on how the integration of Blockchain and Big Data significantly reduces cost.

Day3: The day 3 session was presided over by Prof. Aparajita Ojha is a professor of Computer Science and Engineering at PDPM Indian Institute of Information Technology, Design and Manufacturing, Jabalpur, India since 2005. Prior to IIITDMJ she was a professor at Rani Durgawati University, Jabalpur, India. Her session focussed on elements of blockchain technology. Initially she discussed an industry revolution and with the evolution of Cyber Physical Systems and Internet of Things, business processes and services that have become highly automated. The need for a decentralized trusted system of transactions and supply chain for scaling up the digital economy was discussed. The block chain structure was explained followed by main components and entities. The detailed Bitcoin transaction operations were discussed. The concept of smart contract was explained with an example.

Day4: The day 4 Session was taken by Prof CVS N Reddy. He is an Associate Professor in the Department of Computer Science of Engineering in Dayananda Sagar University Bangalore. He focused his session on basics of blockchain its working and overview of Hyperledger. He discussed on blockchain and how decentralized ledger of all transactions across peer-to-peer network is used for transactions. All this was done on the Remix Browser Plugin which was an IDE built-in in a website which was easily accessible through any web browser. The faculty also developed their own smart contract and deployed it. All in all, the faculty were delighted by the amount of knowledge they gained in the course.

Day5: The day 4 Session was taken by Emmanuel Shubhakar Pilli. He is an Associate Professor in the Department of Computer Science of Engineering in Malaviya National Institute of Technology, Jaipur. The session was started with introduction and he also emphasized its decentralized nature and how it differs from the conventional Server-Client architecture. He then further proceeded to inform the students and faculty the "Why Blockchain" Question. He also informed the students and faculty about the real time applications, use cases and the features of it. He further make aware about the different organizations currently involved in the Blockchain system operations. He further explained the different types of Blockchain. Since Blockchain is closely related to the encryption, he glimpsed on the concepts of Cryptography, Merkle Tree.

He has currently submitted his Ph.D. thesis with the Department of Computer Science and Engineering, National Institute of Technology, Meghalaya, India. Prior to his PhD he was working as an Assistant professor for 12 years at Samanta Chandra Sekhar Institute of Technology and Management, (SCITM) Odisha under BPUT. He discussed on Applications of Blockchain in Smart city Development. He focussed on design, development, performance analysis and benchmarking of blockchain based on smart cities was discussed. He discussed on smart healthcare, smart energy monitoring, smart energy trading, smart building, smart governance and smart agriculture and so on.

He also discussed on the concepts of Hyperledger, Hyperledger fabric, Hyperledger architecture, Hyperledger fabric components and comparison with Ethereum. He also discussed on Hyperledger Caliper which is a blockchain benchmark tool, it allows users to measure the performance of a blockchain implementation with a set of predefined use cases. He also demonstrated the software and generated the Caliper benchmark results focussing on throughput and latency. The students were awestruck when he informed them that almost all the big MNC IT companies are investing and exploring the various applications of Blockchain in their systems.

Our sincere thanks to Dr. K. N. B. Murthy, Vice Chancellor; Dr. Jabardhan, Pro-Vice Chancellor, DSU; Dr. Puttaniadappa C. Registrar, DSU; Deputy Registrar Manu Gowda, DSU; Dr. A. Srinivas, Dean, SoE, Dr.M.K.Banga, Dean Research, SoE ; Dr.Girisha G.S, Chairman CSE; Prof.(Capt.)A. Nagaraj Subbarao, Dean Center for Executive Education for their support ,guidance and encouragement. The co-conveyors of this workshop were Prof Nandini, Dr. Pramod Naik, Prof. Shwetha G.S, and Prof. Trupthi Hegde.

Few of the slides used for presentation by the speaker:

Easy to write contracts

contract Wallet {
  function withdraw(uint amount) public {
    // Check they have a sufficient balance if (balances[msg.sender] >= amount) { // Send them the funds.
      msg.sender.send(amount);
      // Deduct the funds from their account balances[msg.sender] -= amount;

Hard to make sure they are secure

Clouded Computing - big data = block chain

Quantities of big data, however, sometimes are often untrackable for ensuring the data of their origin.

2D's better address the edge system and computational needs of the world, computer systems are a better fit.

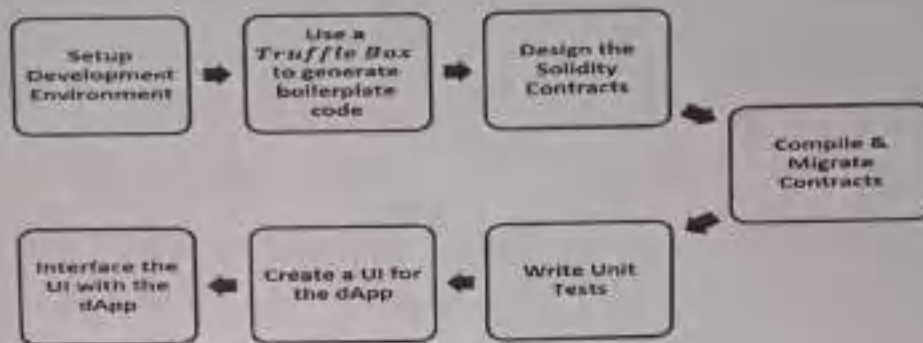

Big data - meaning - software connects the resources of their infrastructure.

A SIMPLE BLOCKCHAIN ARCHITECTURE

COLLEGE OF PHARMACEUTICAL SCIENCES

DAYANANDA SAGAR UNIVERSITY

One day Workshop on “NMR Interpretation - A Practical approach” was organized by Dr.Kalpna Divekar, Professor, Department of Pharmaceutical Chemistry, College of Pharmaceutical Sciences, Dayananda Sagar University on 15th June 2022 at CD Sagar Building, Kumaraswamy Layout, Bengaluru - 78. The resource person was Dr. Rajasekaran, Principal, KMCH College of Pharmacy, Coimbatore. In the morning session, the basics of NMR Spectroscopy were touched upon followed by an in depth understanding regarding interpretation of an NMR spectrum. The knowledge gained was tested by resolving a few spectra. The forenoon session was assigned to give a deep insight about the Proton NMR. Thereafter, interpretation of a ¹H NMR spectrum gained principle focus and a number of spectra were interpreted to establish the information gained in the session.

BLOOM'S TAXONOMY

An Overview and how to use it

One of the basic questions facing educators of all time is "Where do we begin in seeking to improve human thinking?"

Bloom's taxonomy is used by the educators as guidance towards the assessment development or formulation (tests and evaluations of student learning), curriculum (lessons, projects, and other activities related to learning), and instructional methods for questioning strategies.

Bloom's Taxonomy questions are a great way to build and design curriculum and lesson plans. They encourage the development of higher-order thinking and encourage students to engage in metacognition by thinking and reflecting on their own learning.
